Room for All in Dalton's Camp

OTTAWA (CP) — Dalton Camp said Thursday he hopes to form a united front of conservative political forces at the national level...

for such an alignment in an address Wednesday. His remarks on the subject received relatively little attention from reporters seeking a clear picture on whether Mr. Camp will be a candidate next September for the leadership of his party...

surely that at this time in our history there is in this country an urgent need for party reconvergence, for party realignment. He set down as one of the first tests of contemporary leadership 'a realignment of political forces within the national political scene.'

Arrow Order Bans Pickets

CASTLEGAR (CP) — The British Columbia Supreme Court Thursday granted a four-day injunction to B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, allowing the company to ban picketing of the High Arrow dam project by striking electrical workers.

Six-Month Sucker

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Arthur Kyker, 31, was sentenced Wednesday in Knox County Criminal Court to six months in jail for stealing one Illinois. Police said Kyker was caught in a hideout Feb. 26 with the loot in his pocket.

Immigrant Proposals Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — A thorough revision of the federal white paper on immigration appears in the works as a disgruntled special parliamentary committee prepares to make its report.

Work by almost 500 men halted earlier Thursday when five members of Local 999 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers set up a picket line claiming 'hot' power was being used at the site in south-central B.C.

The electrical workers' union is striking against West Kootenay Power and Light Co., the company which supplies power to the construction sites.

CONTRARY TO LAW

The injunction, granted by Mr. Justice Kirke Smith of the Supreme Court, went into effect about midnight, enabling night crews to resume work. It was served by Mr. Edward Peck, general manager of Columbia Hydro Constructors, the company which handles employment at the damsite.

The electrical workers are seeking a 47 per cent increase over the $3.12 per hour paid to tradesmen and a 34 cent hourly increase over the $2.23 paid laborers. They are also asking for a 2 1/2-hour reduction in their 40-hour work week.

APOLLO TRIP YEAR AWAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. space agency's No. 2 man told Congress Thursday that the fatal Apollo fire at Cape Kennedy delayed the next manned space flight by a year.

Robert Seamans, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, also sharply criticized North American Aviation, prime contractor for the Apollo capsule and the second stage of the Saturn V booster rocket.

Seamans assured the committee, which is investigating the disaster, that NASA would improve accessibility to the Apollo cabin, change cabin materials to reduce flammability, and improve the spacecraft wiring as recommended by an Apollo review board.

Dr. George Mueller, NASA director of manned space flight, said that a breakthrough in fiberglass fabric would help in the replacement of flammable plastics. He added that an Apollo escape hatch, which can be opened in two to five seconds, had already reached the mock-up stage in development.

Phillips told the committee that his report, presented orally to North American and NASA officials on Dec. 15, 1965, criticized insufficient attention by top North American management to the big Apollo contracts. He outlined, for the Senate committee, specific criticisms of the company's engineering, manufacturing, quality control and contracting operations.

Turner Favors Ease-Up Of Homosexuality Law

TORONTO (CP) — Registrar-General John Turner says private relationships between consenting adult homosexuals, now a crime under the law, should be allowed.

Mr. Turner said such relationships should be permissible as long as they do not corrupt a minor's morals. He favored abortion on medical grounds and suggested couples should be able to get a divorce after a certain established separation period, such as three or five years.

Landslide for Tories In U.K. County Vote

LONDON (UPI) — Resurgent Conservatives here won a landslide victory in crucial elections for a new 'parliament' for London and its suburbs. They gained absolute control of the new 100-seat Greater London Council early today, ousting Labor after 33 years of unbroken rule in the British capital.

They also piled up massive gains in elections held at the same time for the 58 county councils of England and Wales outside London.

Vice-Regal Post Has Future Says Michener

By JOSEPH MacSWEENEY LONDON (CP) — The genial visitor with the curly grey hair, the cheroot and the quizzical eye was asked, in effect, whether the job of governor-general has a future in Canada.

"I certainly enter upon my duties with that expectation," said Daniel Ronald Michener, who will become Governor-General in Ottawa Monday, three days before his 67th birthday.

Michener gave a press conference at Claridge's after arriving with his wife from India and before they went to Windsor to be overnight guests of the Queen. The Micheners fly to Canada today.

Unruffled by questions about republicanism in Canada and the idea of a United States takeover, Michener said he stopped in London on his journey from India because: "I wanted to pay my respects to Her Majesty and also to enquire into the proper habitment of a governor-general."

British observers called it Canada Week. Besides the visit of the Micheners, Mayor William Denison of Toronto was in town and six Canadian ministers are to arrive in a few days for an Anglo-Canadian ministerial committee session, preceded by a big centennial ball.

U.S. Rejects Red Sub Bid

WASHINGTON (LAT) — The United States has turned down a Soviet bid to buy a research submarine embodying the latest deep-sea technology, it was learned Thursday.

Sale of a STAR 3 research vehicle, capable of diving to a depth of 2,000 feet, would not be in the national interest, according to sources in Washington who reported the decision made by the state department.

Jonahs' Laments Belied by Facts

LAST LAUGH: For months, ever since the Red Lion Inn opened, some of the "experts" have been telling anyone who would listen, and there were plenty, that the Saanich hostelry was on the rocks. In their blighted view it was only a matter of time before the place closed its doors.

It was no wonder president David Hummel was delighted with the company's annual meeting Wednesday night.

He called me in the hospital to report that not only did the Red Lion show a profit in its first nine months of operation, but an independent appraisal shows the value of the operation as having increased by almost $1,000,000.

It was also decided that Dr. Jim Fowler and Dr. Malcolm Graham should serve on the board of directors.

Despite the cries of the Jonahs it seems the Red Lion is moving right along.

Incidentally, the Red Lion gets some free publicity when its Girls' Drum Corps plays at Expo for four days in August. Not really free, with the cost of sponsorship!

LONG WAIT: The city is able to cope with sit-ins, teach-ins, love-ins and what have you. But are we ready for the newest fad — the wait-in? Look out and get ready — there is one on the way.

The stand old Canadian Club is responsible for this latest fad.

They have invited members to hear Resources Minister William at Holyrood House April 19.

The notice of meeting, however, has a stern warning to all members saying they must be in their seats by noon on April 18. The Hon. Ray is a great speaker, but does he really have this drawing power?

CAR TOPPER: The symphony has decided to go into the car raffle business in an effort to raise $10,000 toward the rapidly expanding budget.

Chairman of the committee is Brian Gingell, who picked a Dodge Monaco hardtop as the bait to draw the money.

The odd thing is that Mr. Gingell is a partner in Rock Bay Motors, the Mercedes-Benz dealership.

He left the government service last week, but due to his problems his going-away party will be held tonight.

That's the car business — one day a civil servant, next day kick a tire and slam a door to make a living.

TOP PAYOLA: Every once in a while Mrs. G. F. Dunlop calls with news of the Esquimalt rat race, but this week we met in person.

The low ranger of municipal affairs dropped into the hospital and brought a sponge cake.

Some of the nursing staff were a bit skeptical of a cake iced with the words, "Get Well Sooner" and "Beware of the Arsenic" but we ate it and had a ball. Before our experts scream about bribes, let it be said the cake was entirely unsolicited but totally consumed.

DOGGONE: When concert pianist Richard Norris plays this city he always stays at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel. The California-based piano player says he finds this is the only spot where Cedric and Clementine, his travelling companions, are really made welcome.

Mr. Norris takes the pair of English Cocker spaniels with him wherever possible.

He got a new addition to his kennel just recently, direct from England.

Mr. Norris, along with Cedric and Clementine, will be in town again for a concert at the McPherson Playhouse on April 26.

He will play works by Bach, Beethoven, Liszt and Chopin. The Beethoven work will be the Moonlight Sonata. Mr. Norris, who dropped by St. Joseph's for a chat Thursday, said he has left plenty of time for encores so he can play the usual favorites.

His Post Has Future

ference bearing was relaxed and kindly, told questioners he would not have accepted the vice-regal position, succeeding Gen. Georges Vanier, if he expected the establishment of a republic in Canada.

TWO VISITS A YEAR
Relations between the people of Canada and the monarchy go extremely deep and a Governor-General "who does his job faithfully" can assist in developing a feeling of continuity.

"My objective will be two visits a year throughout the breadth of Canada," said Michener, although admitting it might be too ambitious a program.

Gen. Vanier and his wife — who is of Irish descent — had been an ideal vice-regal couple, combining the two great language strains of Canada, said Michener. He and his wife are both westerners — he was born in LaCrosse, Alta., and she in Winnipeg — but they are bilingual and their three daughters also can speak French.

CONTINUE TENNIS
The relaxed atmosphere at Claridge's was demonstrated when Michener was asked about his favorite sports. He said that he sometimes played tennis at 110 degrees and he will continue the game now "notwithstanding my august position."

Questioned about the "habilliment" he was looking into, Michener said there is, indeed, a special uniform for governors-general — although he will not be wearing it at the Monday ceremony.

"I'm told I also should have a coat of arms," he said later.

ARMS ADVICE
Dr. Conrad Swan, who was born in Duncan, B.C., and now is rouge dragon pursuivant at the Royal College of Arms, was understood to be advising Michener regarding the coat of arms.

Michener, who has served in both the Ontario legislature and in the Commons, has more political experience than either of the two previous Canadian holders of the post — Vincent Massey and Vanier.

He said he hoped his experience in the diplomatic field, and speaker of the Commons, would be useful preparation for the new position.

Michener rejected a reporter's suggestion that talk of a republic has usually been attributed to Quebec province in the past but now was spreading across Canada.

French-speaking Canadians sometimes valued the monarchy higher than their English-speaking compatriots because they saw in it safeguards for their independence, Michener said.

MORE FROM FRENCH
Asked about the chances of the United States "adding another star to its flag," Michener said he knows of no annexation hopes by the Americans and, as far as Canadians were concerned, "we don't want to change the contours of their flag."

With his appointment, the two highest-ranking men in Canada will be English-speaking. Will this lead to racial friction?

"I think I have received more (congratulatory) telegrams from French Canada than from English Canada," he replied.

for domestic purposes. Ecuador, they point out, is in grave trouble socially, economically and politically.

Despite the absence of the Bolivian and Ecuadorian presidential signatures on the declarations, it is not believed that they will be barred from the benefits envisaged in them as members of an existing trading bloc. For example, they presumably would be included when this group is integrated into the proposed Latin American common market.

The declaration, it was understood, consists of two main parts, a declaration of policy by the government heads and a plan of action detailing the course summarized in the declaration. It will say:

• Latin America will create a common market.

• It will lay the physical foundations for Latin American economic integration through multinational projects.

• It will join in efforts to increase substantially Latin foreign trade earnings.

• It will modernize the living conditions of rural populations, raise agricultural productivity and increase food production for the benefit of both Latin America and the rest of the world.

• It will vigorously promote education for development.

• It will harness science and technology for the service of the people.

• It will expand programs for improving the health of the American peoples.

• Latin America will eliminate unnecessary military expenditures.

Points 1 and 2 will refer only to the countries of Latin America, while all the others will include the United States, which has agreed to contribute substantial support to the undertaking.

In a speech to a formal session of the hemispheric summit meeting earlier Thursday, president Johnson offered increased U.S. assistance to Latin America, but urged the Latin to put aside their differences and unite for quick economic progress through their own efforts.

Tic It Off to Nervousness

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 43 and have had a nervous tic in my left eye for about 18 years. It used to go away months at a time but in the last year it has been worse.

It is not constant or too bad but it is annoying and seems to come on when I am tired or have read too much. Would vitamin shots or other medicines help? — V.E.

A tic is an involuntary contraction of a muscle or group of muscles. While we commonly call it a "nervous tic" the word tic is sufficient. It always is a nervous phenomenon.

It can take many forms: blinking an eye, shaking the head, strutting a shoulder, a twitch of the face. I knew one man, an exceptionally fine scholar but also very shy, who used to get into all sorts of embarrassment even when a young man because he continually blinked one eye, and the ladies were variously pleased, insulted or puzzled because he "kept winking at me."

There also was a physician who developed a tic in his eyelids whenever his dosage of thyroid was a bit high. It increased tension.

Both fatigue and extreme tension can cause these muscle twitching or tics. They also can be a habit, with the same muscle persistently responding. Vitamins will not prevent tics, and I hesitate to suggest sedatives. Rather try to take note of the circumstances under which a tic appears.

You already have noted fatigue and too much reading (meaning fatigue of a certain type). If you learn to stop work or stop reading a little sooner it should take care of a good bit of the problem. Indeed, the tic may be a blessing in disguise, an automatic signal to warn that you are becoming over-

Some unpleasant situation, since it increases emotional tension, sometimes triggers a tic, and if you can identify some pattern of such incidents, and resolve your attitude toward the irritation, the tic may disappear.

They are very simple remedies, but are effective.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 17 and put on too much weight. Now I am on a good diet but am worried about stretch marks. Will they go away? A lot of friends have wondered the same thing but no one seems to know what to do about them. — B.H.

Stretch marks do not go away. Once they appear they are permanent. However, the reddish or purplish color will fade gradually, and in time the marks will not be very noticeable. There is nothing to do about them short of plastic surgery which would be very expensive.

was that Ecuador was not getting as much aid as other countries simply because it was not meeting requirements.

For one thing, Roslow was saying, it had the poorest income tax collection rate of any country in the hemisphere.

While that kind of counter-attack went on in the corridors, Johnson wanted to present his speech with its proclamation of "a decade of urgency" ahead in the development of Latin America.

Meanwhile, he sat listening to the other leaders and only showed genuine happiness and appreciation when President Alfredo Stroessner, the strongman leader of Paraguay, spoke in expansive terms about the economic and social progress his country was making.

Johnson was fairly beaming when the Paraguayan finished.

Only President Raul Leoni of Venezuela really railed to the United States, side in the face of the Ecuadorian. The president reiterated to the kind words of Leoni like the boy given a lollipop by the dentist after he completed a tough filling. The applause was perfunctory.

Outbreak Blamed On U.S.

SEOUL (UPI)—North Korea Thursday night accused the United States of responsibility in the latest outbreak of shooting along the 155-mile Korean truce front. It said the incident might touch off "a new war in Korea."

Pyongyang radio said U.S. troops fired thousands of machine-gun and automatic weapons rounds across the demilitarized zone, then sent 40 illumination rockets aloft and began shelling North Korean territory with 81 and 105-millimeter mortars.

Three Communist troops and one South Korean were killed in the two-hour battle, one of the biggest along the border since the Korean armistice was signed in 1953.

A North Korean broadcast late Thursday said the U.S. had perpetrated "one more sinister military provocation" and accused the United States of trying to "ignite a new war in Korea."

'Anti-War' in New York, San Francisco

Cities Brace for Huge Rallies

NEW YORK (AP)—Local, federal and United Nations agencies in New York and San Francisco are gearing for mammoth anti-Vietnam war rallies Saturday that are expected to draw hundreds of thousands of supporters.

A New York City police official estimated Thursday that between 100,000 and 400,000 persons would gather here to hear Dr. Martin Luther King speak against U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The demonstration organizer, the Spring Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, predicted a turnout of 100,000 and a like number for San Francisco.

"But, we almost feel that's conservative," said a spokesman.

"The West Coast demonstration is to reach its climax in Kezar Stadium, which seats 80,000. The protesters there will hear Negro Georgia legislators Julliah Bond and King's wife, among others.

The New York protest will include a float-studded march from Central Park in mid-Manhattan to the United Nations, where an outdoor rally will be held. Feeder marches to the park assembly area are slated from Harlem.

BOOBY-TRAP

An ominous note on the rally was sounded Thursday when a 15-year-old boy, Leon Hart, suffered minor facial wounds as he removed a booby-trapped poster advertising the mobilization from a lamp post.

A small disc behind the poster contained a powder which exploded when moved, police said. The booby trap touched off a police search for such posters.

The demonstrations were expected to draw thousands from cities and towns throughout the United States, including many college students.

One group of demonstrators announced they would protest the war and the U.S. selective service system by staging a mass burning of draft cards in Central Park.

Many demonstrators are expected to carry banners and flags of the Viet Cong and National Liberation Front forces. A spokesman for the organization committee said the mobilization had "a non-exclusionist policy and that no groups, regardless of political persuasion, would be barred."

Police have assigned more than 3,000 men, including 500 detectives, to monitor the crowds.

Mekong Delta Battleground

SAIGON (AP)—A South Vietnamese government battalion of about 500 infantrymen and a larger Viet Cong guerrilla force were reported locked in heavy combat in the Mekong River Delta Thursday night.

The government was said to be rushing a ranger battalion to help the infantrymen, fighting in South Vietnam's coastal Ba Xuyen province 130 miles south of Saigon.

It also was reported that government casualties went up last week while those of South Vietnam's allies and the Communists declined.

A spokesman said 394 government troops were killed, against 211 in the previous week.

With 430,000 American troops now directly involved in the war, the U.S. command said 177 were killed, 1,345 wounded and three missing in action last week. Losses in the week of March 26 to April 1 had been 194 killed and 1,679 wounded.

The Viet Cong guerrillas and their Communist allies from North Vietnam lost 1,478 dead last week, a sharp drop from the 2,449 of the previous week.

In an unusual procedure, a spokesman for Gen. William C. Westmoreland's U.S. command made a point of announcing American casualty totals for the war. He said 8,531 had been killed and 52,946 wounded in action since 1961. In the past, correspondents have kept track of such figures unofficially with week-by-week tabulations.

Two American planes crashed in South Vietnam.

A four-engine cargo and personnel hauler plunged off the runway at Cam Ranh Bay's airfield and sank in the bay. Two injured airmen were rescued, but seven others were missing.

Spain's Air Ban Postpones Meet

LONDON (AP)—Britain postponed next week's conference with Spain on the disputed future of Gibraltar following an order by Spain banning air traffic near the British colony.

Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden told the House of Commons the postponement of the talks due to open Tuesday is a direct result of the Spanish overflying ban.

In sombre tones, he served notice to the government of Generalissimo Franco:

"We intend to uphold to the full our rights to use the airfield at Gibraltar."

"I do not think the question of retaliation and reprisals arises at this stage."

SPANISH MOVE

The Spanish action announced in Madrid Wednesday proclaimed "the Algeiras zone" shut to all types of foreign aircraft. This would bar all military and civil airplanes from an area immediately adjacent to Gibraltar and extending about 18 miles of either side of the colony.

In theory the Spanish order would leave civil airliners free to land in Gibraltar on an east-to-west line, and to take off the opposite direction, so keeping clear of the Spanish coast.

But in practice, especially in bad weather, it would be difficult for pilots to avoid some overflying.

OTHER MISHAP

In the other mishap, a marine Skyhawk jet crashed in a combat run west of Da Nang after a bomb detonated prematurely and blew off a wing. The pilot was listed as missing. This was the 18th U.S. plane recorded as lost in combat in South Vietnam.

Over North Vietnam, heavy clouds limited U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps pilots to 22 missions Wednesday and a spokesman said the weather Thursday was worse. Most strikes were against Communist supply lines in the southern panhandle.

CABINET VERDICT

Bowden, reflecting a cabinet decision earlier today to adopt a tough posture, said Britain means to go on flying her planes to the fortress-colony.

It was obvious, he said, Spain's real aim is to end all air traffic to Gibraltar.

He declined to commit the government to an opinion about the legality of Spain's order pending a full study of the issues.

Then he added in response to questions:

U.S. Soldier Defects

TOKYO (UPI)—Japanese foreign office sources Friday said an American army soldier had attempted to defect to Communist Cuba through the Cuban embassy in Tokyo.

He was identified as PFC Kenneth C. Griggs. U.S. embassy spokesmen said Griggs was reported missing from his unit last week "and presumably was AWOL (absent without official leave)."

KOREA NATIVE

The American spokesmen said that Griggs was an adopted Korean war orphan. They said it was their understanding he was not a naturalized American citizen.

The Japanese sources confirmed Griggs was of Korean origin and said his original name was Kim Jin Suh.

The sources said the Cuban embassy reported to the Japanese government that Griggs presented himself to the embassy and requested political asylum.

REQUEST DENIED

The Cuban embassy requested the Japanese grant Griggs safe conduct to Cuba. But this was denied by Japan, they said, on the grounds that "this is a question of desertion from military service."

The Japanese demanded that the Cuban embassy hand over Griggs to Japanese authorities for handling of the case. Japan does not recognize diplomatic asylum of a foreign mission.

FROM VIETNAM

The foreign office sources said that the Cuban embassy made its request for safe conduct for Griggs on April 4. The American spokesman said the embassy requested Griggs' return on April 7. The American embassy came to Japan on leave.

'Chasing Dead Rocks'

SIR JOHN ECCLES, Nobel prize winner and medical researcher, this week deplored in Vancouver the spending of billions of dollars and the time of many scientists on "chasing a lot of dead rocks, whizzing around in a void." His reference of course was to space research. He would rather see the money and time spent on studies of more direct importance to humanity, for instance on delving further into the workings of the brain.

It is not to be denied that there have been some gains for humanity and will be more in the effort to go to the moon and beyond—even if as Sir John says man will never be able to reach the nearest star because of its distance, and the planets of our own solar system seem not to offer much of benefit to us. There are technological and other offshoots and by-products of space exploration research that give some return for the tremendous outlay besides the satisfaction of attaining the hitherto unattainable. Communications and weather forecasting are but two of the fields in which advances have been made as a direct result of the space programs.

Nevertheless one may wonder with Sir John how much better off the world might be if the same amount of money and manpower were put instead into the quest for new knowledge in the inner realms of man's existence.

And if this can be said of the space programs, what of the anti-missile systems that loom as a possible development in both the Soviet Union and the United States? These, we are told, would be of the same order of expense as the race to the moon. Yet they would yield nothing but a partial defensive shield and the need on each side to build up nuclear strength still more to enable the other's shield to be breached.

Forty billion dollars is the estimated cost of this "protection" for the large cities of the United States—protection incidentally which, if it ever came into use, might extend to some of Canada's southernmost cities but would also likely shower them with massive nuclear fallout. Here most certainly would appear to be forty billion, on the one side alone, that could be a complete waste and productive of international tension besides.

The hope of the world should be that through the talks going on between Moscow and Washington, and through President Johnson's resistance to the demands of the military of his own country for the development of anti-missile missile installations, this new arms competition of the two superpowers can be avoided. For the well-being of mankind, the money might far better be spent even "chasing dead rocks."

A Rum Business

WHEN CANADIAN sailors were allowed to mix cola with their rum tots, former RCN captain Mr. David Groos, MP, said in the Commons, "you should have heard the uproar" from some of his "overly conservative" one-time naval colleagues. Whereas, he added, Admiral Nelson would have liked the mix.

Because he was a very progressive admiral. One hopes Mr. Hellyer was listening, for a year or two ago he was reported as telling local naval officers when pressing his unification theme that they weren't living in Nelsonian days. And he didn't mean this as a compliment to the world-renowned admiral of history.

But speaking by the way how does Mr. Groos know that Nelson would have liked to have his drink diluted with something else? He may have preferred it straight and true, the stronger the better.

What Lord Nelson wouldn't have liked, one feels sure, would have been to see his navy downgraded and its proud title abolished. Mr. Groos should have been more careful in his allusions to famous men. For he is decidedly in favor of Mr. Hellyer's plans.

So much does he support the unification bill that, he told the Commons, he would return to the navy willingly tomorrow.

What "navy," one may ask? When the bill goes through there will be no formation of such designation; there will only be one composite armed force, under a name yet to be chosen.

This attitude doesn't jibe with the letter Mr. George Chatterton read to the Commons disclosing that Mr. Groos wrote that "complete unification is of course not practical, nor is it contemplated."

If one is to judge by Mr. Hellyer's advocacy on the subject, there is to be no limit to the extent of military unification. The defence minister in fact claims that as far as military organization is concerned Canada "will be leading the world."

It would be interesting to hear what defence staffs of the major military nations think of that chauvinistic boast. And Mr. Groos also.

Helping to Pay

MANY MOTORISTS residing elsewhere in British Columbia will bristle at the thought of paying a higher tax on gasoline to help pay for a new First Narrows crossing in Vancouver. This is what Premier Bennett has said he will recommend to the legislature if Vancouver and North Shore ratepayers vote 60 per cent or more in favor of building the crossing and contributing $13,000,000 of the estimated $100,000,000 cost.

It is natural enough, too, for a driver in Prince George or Cranbrook or even Victoria to say, "Why should I help pay for it? I may never use it. Why shouldn't an added tax apply just in metropolitan Vancouver?"

But the same driver would probably agree readily enough that the provincial government has the major responsibility for providing the new bridge or tunnel. For if, because of traffic strangulation or the excessively high local taxation needed to remedy it, the economic viability of Greater Vancouver or any other community is lessened, the whole province is the loser. In this sense everyone in B.C. will be "using" the new bridge or tunnel though he or she may seldom or never drive across or through it. In the same way, stay-at-home city-dwellers can be said to "use" the highways that contribute so much to provincial prosperity.

Southern Vancouver Island motorists in particular ought to bear this in mind if Vancouver accepts the premier's suggestion and in due course the province-wide increase in gasoline tax is imposed. Now it's the turn of the Mainland metropolises. Presently—with a $44,000,000 freeway and arterial road program already recommended—it will be the capital region's "To think we didn't go to the seaside because of oil on the beaches." —London Express Service.

Ottawa Offbeat

THAT long, low "whoosh" you just might be hearing out there isn't the spring breeze.

No indeed. 'Tis the sighing — with relief — by the federal government that we're all going to be able to get socially through our big 100th birthday bash before the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism lets go with its final report.

All suggestions or even suspicions that the government has put the old pressure on the commission to hold its fire are being brushed off with a lofty air as ridiculous nonsense. It's just that the government's lucky — and after all these four accident-prone years when it knocked uncertainly from one crisis to the next, never quite sure that it wasn't falling over its feet and flat onto its face for the final and fatal time.

It's also that the taxpayers are unlucky — with the government's luck costing them thousands of extra dollars a week, maybe even a day — as the "Bi 'n' Bi Boys," as they're known in these political parts, keep putting off the time they'll sell all.

All that is, about how Canada is an "equal partnership between the two founding races," as it's phrased, and how Quebec must be equated with all the rest.

Actually, the problem, in a sense, could be regarded as one of mathematics. Nine equals one — or, to put it the other way — one equals nine.

Provinces, that is. Or, as the royal commission seems to understand it, from its government-directed terms-of-working-reference, equal equals equal.

Even if it takes $8,000,000 to prove it.

The government's vast relief that the question now won't be worked out until next fall can be readily understood when you remember that the first interim report, as it was called, which the royal commission let fly some two years ago.

At that time the royal commissioners reported that bilingualism and biculturalism was a crisis — the greatest in the nation's history — and that if the equation of equality wasn't worked out, it could be the end of Confederation.

Then the royal commission went back to work on its $100-million-a-year-member assignment, and said it would have the first of perhaps five more volumes of its report ready for last September.

No ordinary journalist is expected to be an instant oracle on just about anything, clocks, soups, vintage cars and the Versailles Treaty. But if there are others, can they also along all the verities of Franklin and Johnnie, play Handel's Largo unaided on a piano, grow gigantic sunflowers and write the definitive work on one man and his cats?

It is not merely that he composed and orchestrated his columns like symphonies—daring you to cough between the movements. Followers of the gruff, genial sage marvelled at his prodigious output. They should have observed the input. It ranged over all things written from the highway code to the Holy Bible, Fedtree, vegetable needs and Homer. Fracaludo woodwork and the five books of Moses.

Churchmen who sought to admonish this sinner by hurling carefully selected Biblical passages at him were astonished to receive a direct hit in the pulpit with equally relevant sections from the Scriptures. Nor with one who can deliver himself of this chilling irony: "Harry Allen, the public hangman and Lancashire publican—strange how these two trades involving drops seem to go together—has retired after 25 years' public service."

His retirement was a blow to the world, for he was loved because in the uneasy business of putting words together and making them soar, if not sing, he was the master.

The Government's Bi and Bi Luck

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

Then it was to be December. Then this very month of April. Now the word is "later."

Would you believe November? By which time the Centennial Flame on Parliament Hill will be flickering out, and with luck — the government's luck — Expo will have folded its $85,000,000 tents.

Meanwhile, the bill, as of latest report just this past week, now runs $7,250,000 — by far the most costly royal commission in Canada's long history of royal commissions and should top $8,000,000 just as sure as federal spending and taxes increase.

What, exactly, is the holdup? Well, explaining its great good

A New Era?

From The Gazette, Montreal

ALTHOUGH the problem of pollution often seems so great in its scope as to appear staggering, new developments may introduce an element of hope. This is the hope that the recovery of the waste materials that are now causing most pollution may become in itself an economic attraction.

The coming of such an era was forecast in an address before the Montreal Section of the Chemical Institute of Canada by Mr. Herbert H. Lank, chairman of the board of Du Pont of Canada Limited.

Mr. Lank foresees a day when industrial production will become a far more complex engineering feat. Industrial plants will not only be enforced by law to recover practically 100 per cent of their waste products, but this will result in a much more efficient use of resources. It may even, in the long run, reduce the cost of production considerably.

Industrial plants will not only be enforced by law to recover practically 100 per cent of their waste products, but this will result in a much more efficient use of resources. It may even, in the long run, reduce the cost of production considerably.

Such forecasts, though difficult to grasp now, are not difficult when placed in historical perspective. A great many things that were once cast aside as being useless are now being used to good effect, as science has advanced. This may yet happen in the field of pollution. It may become economically profitable to control pollution, as it is in some respects even now. When that day comes, and it cannot come soon enough, the pollution problem may come to exist. It is something to hope for, and what is more important, it is something to work towards.

Lebanon

Catching A Chill

By PETER HUGHES from Beirut

TINY Lebanon is catching a chill from the cold war between the monarchies and the republics of the Arab world. Egyptian press and radio attacks on Saudi Arabia, and their replies, are finding an ever-louder echo in Beirut's partisan press.

Officially, the government of the left-leaning Mr. Rashid Karami denies that Lebanon has changed her position of neutrality in Arab disputes, but the right-wing — mainly the Maronite Christian Phalangist Party — has insisted that pro-Egyptian policies are endangering the country.

At the end of March, three top right-wing leaders called on the Phalangist President Charles Helou. These three were the president during the 1958 civil war, Mr. Camille Chamoun, the Phalangist leader, Mr. Pierre Gemayel and a deputy, Mr. Raymond Ede — are leading figures in moves to create an anti-government pressure group for more neutral policies in the summer session of the Chamber of Deputies. They were reported to have accused the government of failing to take definite steps to meet the country's political and financial crises and of being swayed by non-official elements.

The visit came after a troubled month, when for a few days the spectre of the 1958 civil war arose again, with the death in a riot of a 17-year-old student. However, the trouble died with the arrest of a policeman and the beginning of the school holidays — and perhaps more important, because the student who was shot in the predominantly Muslim left-wing South was a Christian.

For nearly a year now, this tiny, trading and agricultural country has been shaking to the propaganda of Cairo and Mecca. Things looked grave last May with the murder of the right-wing newspaper editor, Mr. Kamel Mrowa, for it was the murder of a little-known Communist editor which sparked off the bloody fighting in 1958 which led President Chamoun to

"The unpolitical German is a very complicated human being," notes a recent study by Professor Rolf Dahrendorf, of Cologne, to which almost any foreign observer may add a quick "Amen."

"Observed from a distance," the professor explains, "he appears by no means unpolitical. He faithfully discharges his civic duties, reads the papers, listens to the news, discusses rearmament, nuclear armament and the cost of living, occasionally goes to an election meeting and votes regularly."

Like Parking

"Only on closer inspection does it emerge that the German has ranged political activity alongside those burdensome, but unavoidable social obligations such as his housecleaning, at first, the search for a parking space and payment of his rent."

"The German is not consciously involved in political activity. He would basically prefer not to be extracted from the freedom of his own four walls."

For a reporter here, assessing the revival of a strong nationalistic spirit, the readily apparent truth of this statement becomes one of the curiosities of "the new Germany."

Detached

In a country with more than 220,000 delegates to various federal and local governments, 12,000,000 television viewers, 35,000,000 newspaper readers and 22,000,000 singularly conscientious voters, the average German nevertheless remains antiseptically detached from politics. This despite his sensitivity to the nation's emergence once more as a genuine world power.

What one student of the German character calls "the syndrome of ritual participation, private virtues and consequent authoritarianism" is evident in many spheres.

Few Critical

While vast numbers of Germans are uneasy about the all-pervasive coalition that has bottled up political opposition, a public opinion survey earlier this month classified just six per cent of the population as "critical" of the government.

Four of every five Germans exercise the right to vote. Yet less than three per cent of all adult Germans belong to a political party.

A study made by the University of Cologne indicated that 22 per cent of the population is "intensely interested" in politics, but 28 per cent have a "negligible" interest.

Disinterested

Seven out of 10 German women and six out of 10 German college students are "totally disinterested."

Paradoxically, there is a great deal of soul searching about it.

"I worry about it," says a professor of political science at the University of Munich, "because it demonstrates that democracy has not yet come of age in Germany. Among our young people, particularly, neutrality on all major issues is the preferred state of mind."

"There is a disengagement from politics which makes a perfect climate for totalitarianism within a framework of constitutional democracy. Those who are involved in a passionate way seek the extremes of left and right."

The Unions

Nowhere is this more evident than in the 6,300,000 strong trades union movement which takes a strident hands-off position in direct political participation.

"Our members are more concerned with rates of pay, hours of work and what taxes they have to pay," says Walter Roth, the jolly, affable-looking, 45-year-old secretary in Munich of the powerful German Association of Unions, a group whose intense political activity once made it a prime target for Adolf Hitler.

Understandable

"It is deplorable, of course, but it is understandable," Roth went on. "We are a country without a democratic tradition. You could say that in all our history we've known less than 40 years of what passed for a democratic state. "We are very conscious, perhaps too much so, of our inherent weaknesses as a nation. Hell, we made two world wars, lost them both and, in the process, we lost half our territory. Not the best of backgrounds for political activity, is it?"

Worth Risk

"The involvement of the union man is not with politics, but with prosperity," Roth continued. "That's the key to

What They Said About Germans

Germans are born artists who have no taste whatsoever.—President de Gaulle.

Germans are either at your throat or at your feet.—Sir Winston Churchill.

The Germans have a mania to push things so far until they become evil things.—George Bernard Shaw.

Germans are born to be soldiers, to subordinate themselves to discipline and to follow an all-powerful leader.—Marlene Dietrich.

This German nation has proved to be too weak. Those who have survived the mammoth battles must be classified as inferior.—Adolf Hitler.

The Germany of today is different.—David Ben Gurion.

Jews and Germans have much in common. They are industrious, efficient, diligent and thoroughly hated by others. Jews and Germans are outcasts.—Franz Kafka.

German civilization is rough, selfish and materialistic.—David Lloyd George.

The Germans are the most inattentive people on earth.—Konrad Adenauer.

America is America, but Germany wants to be Germany plus America.—Jean Cocteau.

We are the salt of the earth.—Kaiser Wilhelm II.

The whole future. Sure, we see this coalition as a potential danger, but what we say is, "Well, its only for three or four years and if they can keep us strong economically its worth whatever risk there may be."

"Our way back into the world is through our economy first and our social system second because — look! — if this coalition falls to keep us prosperous there'll be an inevitable swing to the radical groups of both the left and the right."

To the Right

"It will more likely be the right. Even when it was legal the Communist Party never had more than four per cent of the votes. They'd have less now if they were permitted to function. So the swing would be to the right, to such groups as Von Thadden's National Democratic Party with their out-of-date dreams of grandeur for Germany and the return of the lost territories and so on."

"We talk of our young people being materialistic and pragmatic," he said, "and so they are. All they want is to study, to work at a good job, to have their fun and build their families."

Kids Cynical

"But let our prosperity falter and those kids will be going for the most extreme kinds of nationalism. They're cynical enough anyway about politicians who use public money for campaign expenses. "Von Thadden is waiting there if they want to make a protest. They will the moment their good life is threatened."

What politicking the unions pursue is dictated by this concern for the relatively insignificant movement from the extreme right."

Education

"We actually fought the NDP earlier on by picketing their meetings and demonstrating," Roth said, "but we found that just made headlines for them. Now we limit ourselves to an educational program."

"We publish books for young people and distribute posters. Members who attend union schools are given some political instruction and occasionally leading men from the government come to lecture."

"We know how invidious the message of the nationalists can be. Its like a melody in spring — it goes right to the heart. The only answer is more political education. Its a pity so few Germans really care."

No Involvement

A reporter finds this lack of interest particularly among educated young people.

When the registrar of the University of Munich, the largest in Germany with 25,000 students, was asked to round up some young people for a discussion he had to

Britain to Enlist Youth For Big War on Poverty

LONDON, from London — A young people's war on poverty in Britain, designed to fire youth's imagination towards building a great society, is to be announced by the government this summer. It will be on the lines of a domestic peace corps.

The government proposes to set up a central body, which will send out teams of volunteers to towns and villages throughout Britain to start community projects. The projects will then be taken over by local young people.

Other proposals involve youth in responsible community work in the health, education and welfare services.

report back that he could locate no volunteers.

A professor of political science, Dr. Hans Maier, finally produced three of his students.

"There is a reluctance to become involved in this sort of thing," he explained. "Large numbers of our young people feel that they are being made to pay for a war for which they were not responsible. They do not feel it is up to them to criticize or defend events over which they've had no control."

Alert, Cautious

The selected students proved to be alert and engaging, but cautious on anything they suspected to be a controversial issue.

"Our political interest is mainly in the concept of a European federation," said 25-year-old Horst Denzer, a political science student in his final year, "but that seems increasingly to be a lost cause, too. We would like to see a unification of Europe politically that would be as effective as our collaboration economically in the Common Market."

All Suspicious

"Unfortunately, I do not believe that de Gaulle, whatever he may say, is genuinely interested in either a European government or a European nuclear force. The alternative, then, to a feeling of European nationalism is German nationalism and that we want to avoid."

"We know that the whole world looks on Germany with suspicion. Any sign of nationalism, even the most understandable, and what happens? World opinion says, 'The Nazis are at it again.' So we avoid even the natural feelings of patriotism. To some extent, you might say, we have had to sacrifice our national identity."

Cost Too High

"That is the case precisely," agreed Rolf Hoevar, a 28-year-old Hungarian-born student also in his final year. "We cannot afford to complicate our relations with the world. Europe as a viable third power is an aspiration that is acceptable where purely German aspirations are not."

"Not that nationalism need be dangerous," Denzer said. "Even the local successes of Von Thadden's party were far less significant than world opinion made them to be. It was mainly a reaction, a protest, to Erhard's ineffectual government. The NPD is a negative movement without positive ideas, but people must have some outlet to register their discontent."

Guilty Pride

"The two big parties are, themselves, becoming much more nationalistic," volunteered Reingard Jaekel, an attractive Munich girl majoring in history.

"They recognize that there is a need for this. If a French student may be proud of being French and an American student may be proud of being American, then why not a German student being proud of Germany without guilt feelings?"

System Blamed

"I blame the educational system. We were brought up with the knowledge that Hitler was an evil man, that the Third Reich was a totalitarian state. But no one ever told us how to acquire a respectable nationalism or even suggested that there might be such a thing."

"There is the problem, too, of so few alternatives politically," said Hoevar. "With the coalition there is no outlet for the kind of left-wing sentiment that students in other parts of the world can freely express, and the right wing, of course, is completely discredited."

"So we retreat into conservatism, neutrality, rationalization. We are the sober generation. Political enthusiasm is denied to us and materialism takes its place."

Guilt Crushing

"The guilt of Germany is the crushing thing," said the girl Reingard. "We are expected to have it after all these years and so, dutifully, we try to remember it and to live with it and, inevitably, that turns most young people inward to seek satisfaction in their private lives, to get ahead and to find their identity in other ways than political."

"For young women it means early marriage, an early family and the oblivion of the house. For the young men it means study, work, cultivating the right people, finding your place in society and acquiring a personal sense of purpose as a substitute for a national sense of purpose."

Berserk Husband Kills Children, Self

TRUMBULL, Conn. (UPI) — A husband haunted by jealousy went berserk for the second time in two months Thursday, slaying his wife with a kitchen knife, then killed himself and his three small daughters in a blaze that destroyed his $28,000 home.

The body of Frank R. Giordano was later found with a "calm and serene" expression on his face, police said.

CONDITION FAIR

Giordano, a 50-year-old bulldozer operator for a Fairfield construction company, first attacked his wife, Jennie, 50, with a 16-inch knife at the climax of a pre-dawn argument involving his allegations that she was unfaithful.

Mrs. Giordano ran bloody and screaming to the home of a neighbor, Albert Van Dyken, who telephoned police in this fashionable suburb of 27,000. She was reported in fair condition at a Bridgeport hospital with multiple stab wounds.

Giordano, meanwhile, had stalked into the bedrooms of his sleeping children. He doused the sleeping forms of Theresa, 8, and Anne, 2, and ignited a match. They and his third daughter, Mary, 5, were all killed in the resulting fire.

'CALM, SERENE'

Giordano, whose co-workers at the construction company described him "as a hard man to beat," slashed kerosene through the six rooms of the ranch home before setting it afire.

When police entered the smoking ruins, they found Giordano dead, reclining on a bed. A police official said he looked "calm and serene."

Police said Giordano apparently died of asphyxiation. The incident marked the second time in recent months that Giordano's anger exploded into violence. He was facing a superior court appearance on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

PRIOR ATTACK

Police said he allegedly shot a 44-year-old service station operator, James Duva, of Monroe, on Feb. 17. Giordano accused Duva of dating his wife.

One of Duva's employees threw a flying block at Giordano and pinned him until police arrived.

Emily Carr Goes to Schools

Nylon New Oil Trap

ST. BRIEUC, France (UPI) — The government Thursday ordered a halt to the use of detergents that threatened rich oyster beds on the Brittany coast and turned to a nylon powder to fight the black tide of oil floating in from the wrecked American tanker Torrey Canyon.

Soldiers with flamethrowers and children with buckets were battling patches of oil when French interior minister Christian Fouchet abandoned detergents that fishermen said would wipe out the oyster and mussel beds.

Fouchet said the caustic detergents "represent too great a danger for sea life."

Fouchet flew over part of the 80 miles of blackened French coastline Thursday and then met with regional officials to announce a crash program to fight the oil, including the use of nylon powder made in West Germany.

The inventor who developed the powder claims it will solidify the drifting patches of oil, making it easier to scoop up. The powder will be sprinkled on the oil and ships and men on the beach will attempt to trap it in buckets.

Bribe Offer POW Claim

TORONTO (CP)—The founder of an Auschwitz prison camp survivors' association said Wednesday night he was offered $35,000 by a West German consular official to disband the group.

Mr. Witaneck, who says he is owed some $1,500, claimed he was offered $35,000 in 1964 "to forget the whole thing and fold up the association."

Mike Witaneck of Toronto made the allegation as he was seeing a former prisoner of war, Sigmund Sherwood, off on a 7,000-mile European protest tour for the group—the Polish Political Ex-Prisoners' Association.

The West German vice-consul, Karl Mutscheller, said Mr. Witaneck's allegation "is quite absurd." But he added that he has been in Toronto only three years and could do little to check whether such an incident took place.

Hospitals Follow School Boundaries

B.C. Divided in 27 Districts; Priority for Capital Region

By BILL STAVDAL
Legislative Reporter

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell divided B.C. into 27 regional hospital districts Thursday, fulfilling government plans announced during the past few weeks.

Vancouver Island becomes five hospital districts, mainly divided along existing school and regional district boundaries. Letters patent establishing the powers and responsibilities of the hospital districts will be issued for all 27 areas within six months, said Mr. Campbell as he made his announcement.

ON PRIORITY

"Plans with pending programs will be put on a priority basis," said the minister. He added the capital region would be assigned "one of the first priorities."

Here are the five Island regional hospital districts, and their names:

Capital region, No. 23 — the regional district of the capital of B.C. and Gulf Islands school district.

Cowichan Valley, No. 24 — Cowichan school district, Lake Cowichan school district, and Ladysmith school district.

NANAIMO

Nanaimo, No. 25 — Nanaimo and Qualicum school districts.

Alberni-Clayoquot, No. 26 — the regional district of Alberni-Clayoquot.

Comox-Strathcona, No. 27 — The regional district of Comox Valley, Campbell River School District and Vancouver Island West school district.

The regional districts will have hospital construction as their prime function, said Mr. Campbell. He added they could assume other tasks later if they wished.

SEVERAL FACTORS

He said the regional districts were drawn after consideration of assessments, utilization of hospitals, and transportation patterns.

The regional districts will raise funds for hospital construction by plebiscite, in much the same way that school districts operate. The finance department will market the bonds, said Mr. Campbell.

Mr. Campbell announced in Nanaimo March 31 the Capital Region hospital district, including the southern Gulf Islands, would inherit a .02 mill tax load. The money pays off bonds on Lady Minto Hospital at Ganges.

NO DEBT

Greater Victoria, never before organized into a hospital district, has no hospital debt.

Mr. Campbell also said in Nanaimo hospital boards would not be abolished. He said the district's administration would have a financing function, with planning and hospital administration left to trustees.

But liaison and joint planning would become vital between district, he added then.

'WHIPPING BOY'

The districts will be run by representatives from municipalities, plus those elected from unorganized territories, Mr. Campbell said Thursday.

Robert Strachan, leader of the New Democratic Party opposition, repeated his endorsement of the government's plan, but warned regional districts could become the 'provincial government's whipping boy.'

"There is no end of the co-operation (among hospitals) that this can bring about once they are in the same district," said Mr. Strachan.

GENERAL REVENUE

He said he still thought all hospital construction, not just operation, should come from general revenue instead of property taxes.

Mr. Strachan said there had been indications from cabinet minister other functions would be encouraged in the regional districts after they were on their feet.

OUTSIDE HOUSE

"Outside the house, Campbell has said he thinks a regional housing authority should be established, and the premier has said that transportation should be a regional responsibility.

"When you put it all together, it's a pretty important vehicle they're creating here.

Hot-Cargo Problem Cooling Off Fast

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Five trawlers went to a designated dumping ground 12 miles southwest of here Thursday and dumped 280,000 pounds of rotten fish, spoiled by a dock tieup at the northern coastal city.

The Prince Rupert Fishing Vessel Owners' Association has launched a damage suit against the Fishermen's and Allied Workers' Union for loss of the fish and for time lost by the trawlers.

Shoreworker members of the union refused to unload the fish, which was branded as "hot cargo" because trawler crews on the British Columbia coast are striking for a better catch-sharing agreement.

Farmer

Witness Tells Murder Trial

Speck in Bar at Crucial Time

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—A tavern employee testified Thursday that Richard Speck left the place at 12:15 or 12:30 a.m. July 14—more than an hour after, the state said, he entered a townhouse where eight nurses were slain.

Murle Farmer gave the testimony before a jury trying Speck on charges of murdering the young women July 14, 1966. Corazon Amurao, the only survivor of the massacre and the state's star witness, told the jurors last week that Speck came to the door of her bedroom about 11 p.m. July 13 and stayed in the house until about 3:30 a.m. July 14.

LEFT, RETURNED

Farmer, who works for Kay's Pilot House, about 1 1/2 miles from the nurses' townhouse residence on Chicago's South side, told his story under questioning by defence lawyer Gerald W. Getty.

He said Speck came into the saloon around 8 p.m. Speck left at 8:30 but returned at about midnight and left between 12:15 and 12:30.

Farmer said he noticed a tattoo showing on Speck's left arm.

FINGERPRINTS

Earlier the defence strove to build doubts about fingerprint evidence.

Getty, Cook County public defender, showed the jury photographs of 11 unidentified prints found where the young women were strangled and stabbed.

He also presented fingerprint cards of two of the victims—Gloria Davy and Suzanne Farris—for comparison with three prints lifted from the inner side of the door of the south bedroom.

SIMILAR TO GIRLS'

The girls were corralled in that room until the killer led them out, one by one, to be slain.

Prosecution witnesses have testified that the fingerprints on the door matched Speck's. Getty has attempted to show that they were similar to the prints of Miss Davy and Miss Farris.

"In all fairness," Bailey asked, "isn't that about as far as you can go?"

"It is possible," said Dr. Umberger.

The trial continues.

Chemist Quite Sure Drug Killed Woman

NAPLES, Fla. (AP)—A chemist who searched for signs of homicide in the body of Carmela Coppolino testified Thursday he would say "with reasonable scientific certainty" that she was killed by a drug.

"If you injected this drug into a live human, then strangled him or hit him with a baseball bat, I would get the same findings I got in this case," said Dr. Charles Joseph Umberger.

He returned to testify for the second day in the murder trial of Dr. Carl Coppolino, an anesthesiologist accused of killing his 32-year-old wife with an injection of the paralyzing drug succinylcholine.

The witness, chief toxicologist of New York City, said he found a concentration of the drug in Carmela's brain, a smaller amount in the liver and none in the kidneys.

He explained that when the drug is injected it flows in the blood stream from the brain to the other organs and then breaks up into harmless components minutes after entering the body.

Death apparently came for Carmela, he said, before the drug could dissipate, indicating "an acute toxic reaction."

QUICK DEATH
The large quantity in the brain, Dr. Umberger said, pointed to a quick death, because if she had lived for some time the drug would have been distributed throughout her body.

Some four months after death, Carmela's body was taken from its New Jersey grave to the office of Dr. Milton Helpern, New York City's chief medical examiner.

Dr. Helpern performed an autopsy, then gave the vital organs to Dr. Umberger for chemical tests, with special instructions to look for signs of succinylcholine poisoning.

FIRST TIME
It was the first time he had made such a search, Dr. Umberger said, and it was the first time where he had "such a positive finding of probable homicide" with this drug.

Defence counsel F. Lee Bailey asked him whether he did not mean only that death from the drug was "possible."

"In all fairness," Bailey asked, "isn't that about as far as you can go?"

"It is possible," said Dr. Umberger.

The trial continues.

Pending Executions Halted in Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—A U.S. federal judge Thursday ordered 51 pending executions upheld indefinitely because of a suit attacking Florida's capital case trial laws as unconstitutional.

U.S. District Judge William McRae also set a hearing for May 31 on the suit filed by two civil rights groups which asks for a writ of habeas corpus to either free the condemned killers and rapists or grant them new trials.

The 51 men all are on death row at Florida's Raiford prison. The suit was filed by the American Civil Liberties Union and the Legal Defense Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

READY TO SIGN
The ACLU and LDF attorneys actually represent six of the men, but their petition was filed on behalf of all 51.

Although there are no executions actually scheduled in Florida's electric chair, Gov. Claude Kirk has let it be known that he is in favor of capital punishment and is ready to sign death papers at anytime.

"The execution of the sentence of death upon the named petitioners and all other persons now subject to execution in Florida... is hereby stayed until further order of this court," Judge McRae ruled.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL
Judge McRae refused to allow the convicts to be present at the hearing, as asked by the attorneys, since the hearing apparently will be the first of many in the tangled legal question.

The attorneys, headed by Miami ACLU lawyer Alfred Feinberg, claim in their petition that the following aspects of Florida's capital case code are unconstitutional:

● An accused killer is not allowed to waive a jury trial in the state unless he pleads guilty.

● Juries, the suit claims, are required to be "death oriented."

● The judge must sentence the defendant to death in first degree murder trials if no recommendation of mercy is advanced by the jury.

The "dual role" of the jury in deciding guilt at the same time that it fixes the penalty in capital cases, the attorneys contend, deprives the defendant of his rights of protection from self-incrimination under the 5th amendment in the constitution.

This is so, they allege, because a defendant cannot take the stand to give the jury estimating circumstances without testifying against himself.

FARMLAND HOLDINGS INCREASE

OTTAWA (CP)—Increased holdings of farmland in Western Canada more than offset decreases in Eastern Canada between the summers of 1961 and the census of 1965, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

The total area defined officially as farmland increased to 174,124,828 acres from 172,581,051 acres during the five years.

Small farms, holdings of an acre or more with sales exceeding $50 a year, dropped by 18.5 per cent to 430,522.

Commercial farms, holdings of an acre or more with sales exceeding $2,500, increased by 6.9 per cent to 276,835.

Cells Bugged Like Victoria

VANCOUVER (CP) — Victor W. Fouracre, an electronics engineer, said Thursday concealed microphones were built into the cells at the Vancouver Public Safety Building, which houses the city jail.

He told the royal commission into the invasion of privacy the microphones were concealed in cell fixtures when he designed the building's sound system 15 years ago.

FOR SECURITY

Police admitted that prisoner-visitor conversations in the jail could be monitored for security. Visitors and prisoners are separated by a glass partition and all conversations are carried out by telephone systems. Liberal MLA Alan Macfarlane requested last August that the Victoria Bar Association back his demands that police stop bugging the phones in the Victoria jail.

FOR MONTHS

Mr. Macfarlane at the time said there were extensive facilities for eavesdropping but they had not been used for "four or five months" after the death of the technician who installed them.

At Thursday's hearing, commission counsel George I. Murray said teachers have complained to him about the use of listening devices in classrooms.

Mr. Fouracre told the commission there are intercom systems which permit a school principal in his office to hear what is going on in classrooms.

Soviet Crew Rebels

ISTANBUL (UPI) — A Soviet cargo ship entered the Turkish harbor of Mersin Thursday after a reported mutiny on board which erupted in fighting and a subsequent request by the Soviet embassy to police to refuse any applications for asylum.

The vessel was the 3,720-ton Yanis Ralnier, which was scheduled to pick up a cargo of cotton at Mersin.

Police said fighting broke out on board Wednesday when the ship's second captain, Visili Tsapkov, rebelled against the authority of Capt. Sergei Monozov. Motive of the mutiny was not known.

But police said Monozov sent messages to Moscow and the Soviet embassy in Ankara after regaining control of the situation.

'Bad Press' Inspires Tears for Humphrey

ATLANTA (UPI) — Vice-president Hubert Humphrey, tears welling into his eyes, said Thursday night that Europe is getting a distorted picture of America from the news media.

"I've been wanting to get down off my chest," said Humphrey speaking to the National Council of Jewish Women.

He said "The story of our transgressions" is told abroad while the good things are not. Humphrey, who just returned from a European tour, quoted Pope Paul VI as telling him "America's moral power is being eroded by the manner in which your country is being interpreted in the eyes of the world."

Tears welled into Humphrey's eyes near the end of the speech and twice he wiped them away.

Departing from a prepared text, the vice-president said many Europeans have the idea the United States is a land of "bombs, fires and disasters." He said such stories are played up abroad and sometimes are "very cleverly censored."

Citing the job corps and the poverty program, Humphrey said: "That's news. That's what America needs to tell the world. We need to be known as a country of life-savers and peace-makers."

Adenauer Weaker

RHOENDORF, West Germany (Reuters) — Doctors struggled Thursday to save the life of Konrad Adenauer, former West German chancellor, seriously ill with influenza and bronchitis affecting his whole system. Oxygen tanks were rushed to his villa here overlooking the Rhine, but the 81-year-old Adenauer continued to weaken.

A PUBLIC STATEMENT BY ALFRED DUNHILL

A year ago we introduced DUNHILL, Canada's first luxury length cigarette. It was available in selected outlets only, at a premium price. Supplies were restricted because of the very limited quantities of high quality tobaccos available to us. Despite the unavoidable shortages, DUNHILL received a very warm welcome and we appreciate this.

I am happy to announce that our luxury length DUNHILL cigarette is now freely available at the popular price.

We have been fortunate in securing an excellent supply of our specially selected DUNHILL tobaccos. In the meantime, our facilities for producing the DUNHILL cigarette have been greatly increased as the demand for this first luxury length cigarette rapidly expanded.

Be assured, the House of Dunhill will maintain the same standards of excellence which have won the world's approval for half a century.

De Gaulle Wasn't Going

Vimy Pot Still Boiling

OTTAWA (CP) — France's ambassador to Canada was quoted Thursday as saying that the position of head of state of France is not comparable to that of Prince Philip.

External Affairs Minister Martin said Ambassador Francois Leduc made this statement in London, Ont., Wednesday in connection with the controversy over whether President de Gaulle should have attended last Sunday's Vimy anniversary ceremony.

guard of honor at Vimy has been a hot one in the Commons for a week.

Mr. Martin said it would have been effrontery and discourtesy to force an invitation on Gen. de Gaulle knowing that he did not wish to accept.

He said the French government felt that the ceremony was essentially Canadian. But there was no lack of French recognition of the ceremony or cooperation in helping to arrange it.

Mr. Leduc was quoted as saying at London, Ont., Wednesday that it was never envisaged that de Gaulle would attend the Vimy ceremony.

Mr. Martin said Mr. Diefenbaker's inference from what Mr. Leduc had said was the result of the Opposition leader's Convict Stigma to Go?

NOT CO-EQUAL

Mr. Martin said it was determined through advance diplomatic negotiations that the president would not attend.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Mr. Martin was saying that Gen. de Gaulle had made it clear he would not go to Vimy because Prince Philip, who represented the Queen of Canada, was not his "co-equal."

Mr. Martin denied this.

The subject of the absence of Gen. de Gaulle or any of his Cabinet ministers of a French

OTTAWA (CP) — George Street, parole board chairman, proposed Thursday that "certificates of rehabilitation" be issued to reformed ex-convicts to erase the stigma of their criminal records.

He told the Commons justice committee that persons with a record who have become reputable, law-abiding citizens need relief from the law. Their record often prevented them from obtaining sensitive jobs or visas to work in other countries.

Mr. Street was commenting on a private member's bill by Donald Tomlin (L.-Welland) to erase the records of rehabilitated offenders. The committee is holding hearings on the proposal and is expected to recommend some form of elimination of criminal records.

The parole chief suggested that deserving ex-convicts be given a certificate by the solicitor-general's department saying the individual is rehabilitated and the offences he was convicted of in the past are deemed not to have been committed.

Accident Victims In Poor Condition

Three crash victims remained in poor condition and one in fair condition Thursday. Both died in hospital.

Walter Jatkowski of 2404 Cook received severe head injuries and Victor Martin of 739 Russell suffered back injuries when the van in which they were traveling was involved in a collision at the Trans-Canada Highway and Millstream Sunday.

Mr. Jatkowski was in poor condition Thursday and Mr. Martin was in fair condition.

INJURIES MINOR

The driver of the car that was in collision with them, Gordon Drier of 720 Newberry, received minor injuries.

Mabel Elizabeth Waterman of 2605 Rocky Point and Robert John Switzer of 464 Gorge East were both in poor condition Thursday. They were the drivers and lone occupants of vehicles that were in head-on collision at the top of the Four Mile Hill on the Old Island Highway Saturday night.

David Holden, 80, and his wife, Barbara, 70, were released from hospital Thursday. Both had received injuries in an accident at Fort and Vancouver Saturday night.

Mary Gardner, 14, of 1213 Juno, was in good condition Thursday as the result of injuries suffered when she slipped on a log in Saxe Point Park, and the log rolled over her.

Originally, she was in poor condition in the intensive care unit, but she has been removed from the unit, and is in good condition.

TORONTO (CP) — After a seamy session, industrial edged higher, snapping a four-day slump.

In the industrial list, Canadian Tire moved up 1/2 to 23, Alberta Natural Gas 1 to 21, Alcan 1/2 to 2% and Versatile 1/2 to 3/4. Beaver Lumber, which has been strong for the last two sessions, slid 2 1/2 to 24 1/2 and Superstee 1 1/2 to 24 1/2.

Western oils staged a late rally after being down for most of the session. Dome climbed 1/2 to 56 1/2 and Canadian Superior 1/2 to 36 1/2.

Uranium issues shared the spotlight as Denison rose 1 1/2 to a high of 61 1/2 and Rio Algom 1/2 to a high of 29 1/2.

Dome Mines climbed 1 to 44 1/2 to pace the gold group higher. Campbell Red Lake added 1/2 at 20 1/2 and Kerr Addison 1/2 at 12 1/2.

Some good gains were scored in mines. Brenda, from whom a report is expected, rose .30 to 6.00; Bethlehem was up .15 at 6.25 and Coleman B rose .10 to .40 on news of a coal contract with Japan. Highland Bell rose 7/8 to 11.75.

Cariboo lost .08 at 2.00 and Dynasty was off .15 at 7.80. Pacific Western Airlines rose .25 to 10.63.

Rally by Alcan
MONTEREAL (CP) — The market ended the day mixed as advances in industrial and uranium cancelled out losses in utilities, banks and papers.

Alcan advanced 1 to 33 1/2, almost wiping out Wednesday's 1/2-point loss. Moore Corp. rose 1/2 to 101 and Labatt 1/2 to 24 1/2.

Canada Cement added 1/2 to 41 1/2 and Dominion Stores 1/2 to 18 1/2.

Dominion Textile eased 1 to 25 and CPR 1/2 to 68 among a group of weaker industrial.

Bank of Montreal slid 1/2 to 67. Among the weaker papers, consolidated ended 1/2 off at 41 1/2 and Great Lakes 1/2 to 28 1/2.

Hollinger lost 1 to 27 1/2 among the senior mines. Falconbridge and Hudson Bay Mining each advanced 1/2 to 87 1/2 and 87 respectively.

IBM-Xerox Soaring
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market carved a fair gain. Stocks were helped by IBM-Xerox soaring.

The Japanese steel manufacturer, Nippon Kokan has signed a contract to purchase 12,000,000 tons of coking coal over the next 15 years from Coleman Collieries of Alberta.

The contract worth $160,000,000 is subject to agreement on rates with the CPR to move the coal to the Pacific coast.

The plan is for 800,000 tons a year for the next three years and 1,000,000 tons a year thereafter.

The Japanese have agreed to pay $11.05 (US) a long ton up to 1973 and $10.85 a ton thereafter.

Also pending for Japanese contracts are Crown Steel Industries of Ferrous and Commerce Mines Ltd. of Ontario.

Steel Prices Will Increase
PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. announced price increases Wednesday on some additional structural steel sections and sheet piling.

The biggest American steelmaker said the average increase is $2.60 a ton, or less than two per cent.

Increases go into effect Saturday.

London Stock Prices

London stock prices were mixed, with car sales well ahead of a year ago for the first 10 days of April was the most encouraging item.

Chrysler raised 1, Ford 1/2 and General Motors 1/2. American Motors was off 1/2.

Analysis said the rise in sales would have to continue about a month before many doubters are convinced.

IBM, reporting record profits and a $100,000,000 computer contract from the U.S. Air Force, spurred 3/4 to 456. Xerox rose 1/2 and Control Data, second most active stock, gained 3/4.

Great Western Financial and Imperial Corp. of America gained fractions, setting the pace for savings-and-loan holding companies which stand to benefit from the easing of U.S. interest rates.

Polaroid ran up 7 points, spearheading a rally by photographic stocks.

Pipe Line Company Signals Hunt For Extra Markets

By HARRY YOUNG, Business Editor

Within the next year Interprovincial Pipe Line Co. must make up its mind whether to loop its U.S. section along the south shore of Lake Superior to Sarnia or to use a new route to the south end of Lake Michigan.

D. G. Walton, newly-elected president of IPL, told the annual meeting the southern line would tap the Chicago market, which could represent as much as 300,000 barrels a day.

He said increased production and the discovery of new sources of oil in western Canada meant a special effort had to be made to penetrate new markets. Chicago was such a one.

Mr. Walton said IPL expected an eight-per-cent increase in demand for crude oil during 1967.

CAR PACT HELPED

The Canada-U.S. car trade pact has assisted Levy Industries to enlarge and modernize its production equipment and facilities said Mark A. Levy, chairman, in announcing the company's 1966 net earnings of $3,128,376 ($2.50) an increase from $1,677,712 ($1.08) in the previous year.

Mr. Levy said the backlog of orders carrying into 1967 is beyond the previous highest in the company's history.

Cycles, skates and sporting goods provided another lift to the Levy profits. The company's production capacity of hockey sticks, leather goods and skates has been increased five times by the opening of a new plant at St. Jean, Quebec.

GOOD 1967 START

First-quarter progress was reported by Consolidated Paper with an unaudited net earnings of $4,032,000 (65 cents) compared with $3,805,000 (52 cents) in the first quarter of 1966.

Highmont Mining Corporation has ordered a preliminary feasibility report on its low grade molybdenum-copper prospect in the Highland Valley of B.C.

Adjacent to the Lornex property, it has been the subject of a drilling program.

Chapman, Wood and Griswold have been appointed consulting engineers for the study.

TREASURY YIELD

The yield on the Government of Canada treasury bills this week fell below the four-per-cent mark for the first time in eighteen months.

The 91-day bills sold at a yield of 3.98 per cent compared with 4.08 per cent a week ago, and the 182-day bills went to a yield of 3.97 per cent against 4.08 per cent last week.

CANADA'S SHARE GROWS

Canada's share of world trade in 1966 was 4.7 per cent, and its export gains during the year were 17.3 per cent higher than in 1965.

The UN statistics division said Canada's exports were just behind those of Japan, which were 4.8 per cent of the world total.

The U.S., although losing its grip, was still the world's top trader with 14.7 per cent of the market, but this compared with 18.3 per cent 10 years ago. The British share in the same period dropped to 8.5 per cent, which put it behind West Germany, whose share has risen in 10 years from 7.5 to 9.9 per cent.

THREE AIRLINES

Three more airlines were given routes into Seattle-Tacoma airport by the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board.

They were Eastern, Braniff and Continental.

It will bring 30 more flights daily to Seattle and 250,000 new passengers a year says Charles D. Saunders, president of Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

Market Act Overruled

WENNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba's Natural Products Marketing Act, the master legislation of provincial marketing boards, was declared unconstitutional Thursday by a magistrate's court.

The decision had immediate repercussions in the legislature, where the government said it was in the hands of legal advisers and indicated an appeal was almost certain.

Provincial Magistrate Harold Gyles ruled in his Winnipeg court the act is ultra vires — beyond the powers — of the province because it trespasses on interprovincial trade matters reserved to federal jurisdiction by the British North America Act.

CHARGE DISMISSED

The magistrate singled out Section 3 of the act, which provides for marketing control of natural products grown in Manitoba. He accepted the contention of vegetable retailer Albert Sumka of Winnipeg that the section applied to marketing of Manitoba products anywhere.

He dismissed a charge against Mr. Sumka of failing to register with the Manitoba Vegetable Marketing Commission as required by the act.

In the legislature opposition leader Gil Molgat sought, and received over government objections, an emergency debate on the issue.

'REAL CONCERN'

Mr. Molgat asked whether the government would appeal the decision or amend the act and whether other marketing boards would be permitted to proceed in the meantime.

People of Light and Dark

Prepared by the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development

Foreword by His Royal Highness Prince Philip

This magnificent volume is a sequel to the best-selling "Unbelievable Land", and is compiled from the studies and experiences of the people who are fascinated by the Canadian north as a land with its own unique history, its particular problems and the challenge it presents to men of courage and adventure. With the exploding numbers of humanity pressing into all corners of the earth, the endless empty miles of the north are an unique assertion of the unchanging past in at least one part of the globe.

Atlantic Acceptance Hearing Told

Large Loan Contravened Act

Counsel Paid $104,832

TORONTO (CP)—The legislature's public accounts committee was told Thursday that London lawyer A. E. Shepherd received $104,832 as counsel for the royal commission inquiry into the collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp.

A. R. Dick, deputy attorney-general, told the committee Mr. Shepherd was paid $30 an hour for the 3,144.8 hours he worked as commission counsel between Aug. 12, 1965, and Jan. 31, 1967.

James Trotter (L—Toronto Parisdale) described the payment as "completely out of line with what we pay our lawyers in the government service."

He suggested the job should have been handled by a government lawyer, declaring that several now in the Ontario civil service are "just as capable."

TORONTO (CP)—A $1,000,000 mortgage loan by British Mortgage and Trust Co. to Tip Top Tailors in 1963 contravened the Trust and Loan Act in spirit at least, the royal commission on Atlantic Acceptance was told Thursday.

Accountant Hugh Walker testified that the loan was granted Oct. 31, 1963, when the company could legally lend a maximum of $903,411 — 15 per cent of paid-up capital and reserves.

However, he said, Aurora Leasing Corp., a subsidiary of Atlantic, accepted $100,000 of the mortgage as a book entry. Mr. Walker said there was no record the funds actually were transferred.

OTTAWA (CP)—A new Auditor-General of Canada Act giving the auditor-general authority to report on operations of all Crown corporations was proposed Thursday by the Commons public accounts committee.

The act also would broaden the powers of the auditor-general in hiring staff and would fix his salary at not less than the highest paid deputy minister.

The terms of operation of the auditor-general now are included in the Financial Administration Act.

MOST IMPORTANT

The most revolutionary of the provisions of the proposed new act is a clause making it mandatory for all Crown corporations to appoint the auditor-general as corporation auditor or a joint auditor with the present firm.

Maxwell Henderson, auditor-general, told the committee that while many Crown corporations had appointed him auditor there were still eight that had not.

AIR CANADA

Air Canada, the Bank of Canada, Canadian National Railways, CNR Securities Corp., the Canadian wheat board, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., the Industrial Development Bank and the Company of Young Canadians do not come under the auditor-general's jurisdiction.

Paul Tardif (L—Russell) complained of a system that would have the auditor-general "auditing the auditors."

Committee chairman Alfred D. Hales (PC—Wellington South) said all Crown corporations were part of the government of Canada and the committee was interested in knowing how the taxpayers' money was spent. Having Mr. Henderson as auditor or joint auditor would mean that the accounts of all Crown corporations would be included in the annual auditor-general's report to Parliament.

Mr. Henderson explained that joint auditors were "jointly and severally" responsible and denied that it was a question of auditing the reports of other auditors.

The draft of the new act was reviewed by Gordon Dunnet of Toronto, legal adviser to the auditor-general, who outlined the provisions which differed from the present regulations in the Financial Administration Act.

Unification Debate Dragging

Massive Boredom Now Obvious

OTTAWA (Special) — Thirteen people in the public galleries, and 28 MPs in their seats, told the story of the massive boredom that has settled over the armed forces unification debate.

It was a spot-check at 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

At other times, in the past ten days, the interest has been much lower, with MP's attendance dropping dangerously close to the quorum of 20, when the Commons stops functioning.

The government is planning to use mini-closure to end the debate, in eight to 10 days.

MAY NOT LAST

There are serious doubts if the debate can be kept alive that long.

The opposition has challenged the government to the closure so that the record will show that unification was forced through by this device.

The government is not using closure, but it has accommodated the opposition, and taken it off the hook, by indicating that it will use the allocation-of-time device, which is modified closure.

Thursday night, Tory leader Diefenbaker called it outright closure.

He agreed that the allocation of time device was in provision rules approved by all parties in 1965.

But, he added angrily, "We expect these rules to be applied by consent, not by compulsion."

The government, he charged, would destroy "every vestige of Parliament."

CONTEMPT SHOWN

Some important features of the bill, though not yet approved, were being put into effect.

"It shows a total contempt for the parliamentary process," he said.

The parties met privately Thursday to discuss the deadlocked debate.

Tory House leader Michael Starr could give no undertaking about how long the debate would last.

TO COMMITTEE

So, when the Commons met at 2:30 p.m., government House leader George Meirraith moved that the Commons deadlock be sent to an all-party business committee.

The committee had its first meeting later Thursday.

It is not expected to agree on a solution. "We are not going to agree to closure," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

The committee has three days to try to reach unanimous agreement on time for the debate.

NOT CRISIS END

If there is no unanimity, the government sets a time limit, and the issue is forced to a vote.

This would mean that unification would be passed through the Commons in about 10 days and probably by the end of the month.

However, that wouldn't be the end of the threatened national crisis.

Early in May, the government would have to ask the Commons for spending money to run the country in that month.

DEBATABLE

The request is debatable, and the opposition could keep talking about the unification question.

But the betting is that the opposition will be satisfied once the government has forced it through.

Thursday night, Mr. Meirraith denied Mr. Diefenbaker's charge that closure was being used.

The allocation of time measure, he said, was an attempt to get agreement, with a provision in it for someone who willfully refuses to agree. He can't frustrate the whole will of the House.

But, to Mr. Diefenbaker, it was the government clanging down the "gullotine" on the defence debate.

Liberals Must Win Not to Lose Ground

OTTAWA (CP)—The minority Liberal government, which needs every seat it can get, sets its popularity in five federal byelections Monday, May 29.

Prime Minister Pearson announced the voting date Thursday for the five Commons vacancies created through deaths and resignations.

The government has little to gain, except increased majorities, in "the little general election" since it held all five until they became vacant.

At the same time it can ill afford a loss because of its precarious position in terms of seats in the Commons.

The four vacant Quebec seats are regarded as Liberal strongholds. They are Montreal Papineau, Montreal Outremont - St. Jean, Richelieu-Vercheres near Montreal and Hull, across the Ottawa River from the capital.

In a different light is Sudbury, where the NDP candidate ran a close second to Rodger Mitchell in the 1965 federal election. Mr. Mitchell died in January.

ANY LOSS

Loss of any of the seats would weaken the government position. Even if it wins all five it will still be short of a clear majority in the Commons.

The government holds 127 seats in the 265-seat House. The Conservatives have 96, the NDP 21, Creditistes, 8, Social Credit 5. There are three independents.

Mr. Pearson's announcement signified the failure of attempts by Forestry Minister Sauve to run in Outremont-St. Jean. His riding of Iles-de-la-Madeleine disappears under redistribution.

Outremont - St. Jean was opened with the appointment this month of Maurice Lamontagne to the Senate.

CARDIN RESIGNED

Earlier, Lucien Cardin resigned from the cabinet and from the Richelieu - Vercheres seat. Another cabinet minister, Guy Favreau, gave up Papineau for the bench.

Racer Was Ready

Canada's Coast Guard literally flew into action Thursday morning when an emergency call from a passing ship said Discovery Island lighthouse was on fire.

It turned out to be a sea-going false alarm, while two cutters and two helicopters were well on their way to the area.

Minutes after the call came, the cutters Ready and Racer, which had been preparing for routine patrol duties, were dragging out of harbor.

While this was going on, the Alouette III helicopter at Patricia Bay was given an emergency call and took off almost instantly to the rescue. Another helicopter went from the Cam-sell.

But the cutters dropped their speed and the helicopters banked back toward home when a call came through that the fire was not intentionally to demolish a building on the estate of the late Capt. Ernest G. Beaumont.

Education Grants Trail Costs 'B.C. Hoodwinking Taxpayers'

School costs and teachers' salaries have skyrocketed in the past few years, but not government education grants — they are based on a 1962 wage schedule, Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood said Thursday at a meeting of city council.

In a report which achieved nothing in the way of council action, Ald. Edgewood said that since 1964, school costs were up 44.3 per cent and salaries 40.6 per cent.

The provincial government was "hoodwinking" the taxpayers, the alderman said.

However, he agreed the education problem was only part of a larger provincial-municipal relations issue and a separate resolution to the Union of B.C. Municipalities was not needed.

The city will introduce a resolution, to be presented at the September convention in Prince George, asking the whole field of provincial-municipal relations be explored by a royal commission.

The final figure on government grants have not yet been announced but Education Minister Peterson has stated in the case of Victoria it will mean about 4.8 mills on the tax rate. This, with increased costs in the city, will bring the 1967 rate up to more than 70 mills — an increase of at least five mills in 1966 and an amount of around $40 more for the average home owner to pay.

Ald. Edgewood said Thursday a survey of school districts showed there were 1,063 teachers, and increase of 73 from 1966.

"We have a greater number of teachers at the maximum of their range than in any other school district. For example, 148 of 178 of top-bracket teachers are at their maximum of $10,840. In addition, a good many of this group get extra allowances above and beyond the $10,840," the alderman said.

Determined Hawks Foil Final Leafs' Comeback

CHICAGO 4, TORONTO 3
TORONTO — Chicago Black Hawks, caught twice and almost caught a third time, survived a furious late rally by Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night and squared their Stanley Cup semi-final at 2-2 with a 4-3 victory.

Two and a half minutes left and immediately got a goal from Mike Walton. Leafs almost tied it again in the final minute but Denis DeJordy held out. DeJordy took over from Hall with about four minutes left when Hall was hit on the face by a shot from Jim Pappin. Hall lost two teeth and gained 10 stitches. Also hurt late in the game was Hoxton, a Toronto stand-out. He was hit in the face as he went to the ice with Dennis Hull after the Chicago forward had tried to split the defence. Hoxton left a trail of blood as he left the ice and it was reported his nose was still bleeding a half hour after the game. There were fears that it was broken.

Ferguson's Winner Puts Habs in Final

MONTEAL 2, NEW YORK 1
NEW YORK (UPI) — John Ferguson scored at 6:28 of sudden death overtime Thursday night to give the Montreal Canadiens a 2-1 victory over the New York Rangers and a four-game sweep of their Stanley Cup semi-final series.

Ferguson's winning goal, his third of the playoff series, was the easiest one of the game. Ralph Backstrom shot at Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin, who made a good save but fell to the ice and away from the crease on the play. Ferguson, who has enjoyed a particularly brilliant year against the Rangers, was all alone to the right of the cage and easily pushed the puck into it.

The victory extended Montreal's unbeaten streak to 15 games, the last 10 of which were wins. The defending Stanley Cup champions now await the winner of the Chicago-Toronto series. Canadiens scored first, J. C. Tremblay firing home a 50-footer at 10:46 of the opening period.

Orioles, Giants Grab Wins As Powerful Pairs Connect

Robinson and Robinson in Baltimore and Mays and McCovey in San Francisco are still in business, and they could have world series tickets for sale in October.

In San Francisco, Willie Mays hit a first-inning home run and Willie McCovey drove a ball out of Candlestick Park in the fourth as Gaylord Perry blanked the Braves with four-hit pitching.

Frank Robinson, most valuable player in the American League last season, hit two home runs and Brooks Robinson hit one as the Orioles eased by the Twins.

It scored Jerry Buchek, who hit a two-run homer in the second inning and started the winning rally with a single.

SALMON FISHING in Saanich Inlet, Oak Bay and Pedder Bay waters is as hot as it has been for some time. Off the tip of Discovery, out from the lighthouse, there is no trouble getting a limit of good-sized bluebacks, reports Jim Russell, who was among the lucky anglers this week.

Other National League games yesterday saw Cincinnati Reds take the lead with a second straight win and New York Mets edge Pittsburgh Pirates.

At the Brentwood end of the Inlet best spot to take blues has been at the head of Coles Bay, but they have been jumping from Coles Bay all the way to Indian Bay. There have been isolated schools of blues at Whiskey Point, between Senanus Island and The Boulder, at the Stone House and Deep Hole.

Other National League games yesterday saw Cincinnati Reds take the lead with a second straight win and New York Mets edge Pittsburgh Pirates.

Chicago (4) and Toronto (3) were tied in the third period when Eric Nesterenko got in a bit deep on the left side.

He slid the puck goalwards and it appeared that Sawchuk swept it over the line with his arm. He swept it out immediately but the Leafs put up only a mild protest.

Upper Campbell and Lower Campbell are producing trout. McIvor, Miller Creek and Loveland have been the better spots on Lower Campbell, with worm and bobber producing limits in the evening between six and eight and little brown hackles, black gnat and orange flies taking some trout.

Clay Still Seeking Stay of Induction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay went into the Supreme Court Thursday in an effort to block his scheduled April 28 induction into the army.

Clay filed his papers in the name Muhammad Ali and described himself as "a 25-year-old blackman or a so-called Negro male who serves as a duly appointed regular minister."

He said the puck goalwards and it appeared that Sawchuk swept it over the line with his arm. He swept it out immediately but the Leafs put up only a mild protest.

Triple Golf Win For Mary Gidden

Mary Gidden dominated play in the ladies' division at Cedar Hill Golf Club this week.

Mrs. Gidden teamed with Peggy Matthews to win the club button for the fifth time, defeating Ethel Wright and Dalma Mann, won the low net honors with a 66 and took the putting competition.

Should a "non-swinger" visit swinging Britain?

Yes. Very definitely! Because Britain is just as lively or leisurely as you care to make it. It's simply a matter of choice. Some of our passengers fly to Britain for a swinging vacation. Others prefer the things which are uniquely British—the friendly pubs, the gentle countryside. The pomp. The pageantry.

Only BOAC with Air Canada flies direct to Britain, and this summer we offer you the choice of up to 12 jet services a day from Toronto and Montreal. And there are several flights a week from western Canada, including direct Western Arrow services to London.

Plan your trip now. See your BOAC travel agent and he'll get swinging with all the necessary arrangements.

U.S. Names Ryder Cup Golf Squad

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—An American Ryder Cup team featuring five newcomers to the international competition will meet British opponents at Houston Oct. 20-22.

The American side, announced Wednesday by President Max Elbin of the PGA of America, will include: Billy Casper, Arnold Palmer, Gay Brewer, Doug Sanders, Gene Littler, Julius Boros, Bobby Nichols, Al Geiberger, Gardner Dickinson Jr. and Johnny Pott. Brewer, winner of the 1967 Masters championship, and PGA champion Geiberger have never played in the Ryder Cup matches, nor have Sanders, Nichols and Dickinson.

Three of the American players—Casper, Palmer and Littler—represented the United States in the last three biennial matches.

Reg. 10.95 sq. yd.

What Does "501" Mean?

"501" is not a fibre name. It is a Du Pont certification mark that stands for tested value. Many carpets certified "501" actually exceed the requirements.

The FIVE tough Du Pont tests that nylon carpets must pass for "501" certification are:

- FIBRE QUALITY TEST
To assure resistance to hard wear, spots and stains.
- FIBRE DENSITY TEST
To give you elegance of lush, deep pile.
- "FUZZ" PROOF
Pile yarns securely locked in to prevent them pulling up and creating a "fuzzy" appearance.
- COLOUR RETENTION TEST
Invite the sun into your home. These carpets will resist fading.
- STABILITY TEST
Let the group dance on it! Your carpet will not ripple or change shape.

Why Century Fashion?

Century Fashion is woven to Jordans' order by Harding Carpets: Canada's Leading Mill. The experience and integrity of our two firms assures you of confidence in your purchase.

Century Fashion is beautifully styled with a graceful, subdued pattern and an array of the most exciting colours you've ever seen. Century Fashion is designed for carefree family living and will far exceed the requirements for 501 certification.

Victorians Among Fleet Graduates

Three Victorians will be among the 27 technical apprentices to graduate from the RCN's Fleet School in Esquimalt Friday.

Leading Seaman L. A. Chatell, 33 Superior, N. R. Platek, 481 Fraser, and D. R. N. A nearrow, 1188 Esquimalt Road, have graduated after a 39-month training period which included instruction in marine engineering technician or hull technician trades.

The student sailors also served a six-month period of training aboard the destroyer escorts of Pacific Command.

Graduates will now be posted to RCN ships for employment in their trades.

Some of the class has applied for the college training plan while others are hoping to become general list branch officers after accumulating further seagoing and trade experience.

Giddy Whirl Launched

Giddy Social whirl has begun for 18 Miss Victoria finalists. This week they went to McPherson Playhouse as guests of Reaction Theatre to see Point of Departure, and get bon vivant's eye from actor Don McManus. Left to right in front row: Shirley Wilson, Priscilla Jones, Brenda Steele and Margo Vickers; second row, Wanda Buckley, Nadine Stewart, Karen Beck and Joanne Besale; right rear, Charlet Biggs and Kerry Crofton. —(Robin Clarke)

Salute to Canada Co-operation Big, Burnside Winner

By BERT BINNY
The auditorium at Burnside Elementary school was packed from front to back and from side to side last night when the school presented the first of two performances of A Salute to Canada.

It was a great effort. It represented excellent co-operation by the students and careful management by the staff. Nothing too pretentious was attempted with the result that everything was within the capacities of the performers.

Highlights in the history of Canada were presented in the form of tableaux; these tableaux being accompanied by a narration. The youthful narrators were always satisfactory.

No fewer than 200 students were involved in the actual performance including singers, dancers and participants in the various tableaux.

The auditorium itself was liberally decorated with centennial symbols, all the work of students. Maple leaves were hung on the walls and suspended from the light fixtures; the effort was 100 per cent.

Among the pre-1867 pioneers represented were the Vikings, Cartier, de Champlain, Cook, Douglas.

The first half of the program ended with the Fathers of Confederation. After the intermission attention was given to the last 100 years with such depictions as the Gold Rush, completion of the CPR, recognition of art, science and sport and even the Whiskey Trader.

Film strips were also used as well as songs by the school choir and two dances, Carding the Wool and Man in the Hay.

All in all this was a capital centennial effort. No one is going to pretend that it was a fully professional, slick review but neither is anyone going to suggest that it was ever intended to be. But, according to its lights, it was first class.

And its lights were pretty bright at that!

Returning a visit to Victoria made by a delegation from Palm Springs some weeks ago, Mayor Hugh Stephen will leave for the California city Saturday.

The Palm Springs delegation, which included former movie star Charles Farrell, a beauty queen and the mayor of the city, was given a luncheon by the city during its visit here and a dinner by the provincial government.

Object of the visit was to establish a sister city relationship and further reciprocal tourist trade.

Mayor Stephen will take one of the city's cast-aluminum presentation plaques to be given to the Palm Springs administration, and a number of small tokens poles as gifts to individuals.

The mayor will be away until Wednesday morning.

Murder Trial Set

—SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Andre Lamothe and Jacques Gagnon Thursday were sent to trial on charges of capital murder in the death of Paul Chandonnet, whose body was found in a lime-filled grave in October, 1965.

Both men had appeared at a voluntary statement—a stage in Quebec criminal proceedings where the accused may present evidence to have his case dismissed without a trial.

The body of Chandonnet, a resident of this community 100 miles southeast of Montreal, was discovered near a gravel road just north of here.

TOP SOIL

By far the cheapest soil nutrient for your lawn and shrubs. If applied as top dressing (one yard for every 600 sq. feet) it will after three yearly applications develop a thick and lasting turf that feels like a soft carpet. That is how good and lasting lawns used to be made.

Top-dressed lawns moreover are far less vulnerable to weeds and most important of all require less watering. One yard of topsoil weighing about 2,500 pounds costs you four dollars. In comparison, one dollar of chemical fertilizer will buy only about 15 pounds of fertilizer which at best contains only 3 pounds of plant food. It will therefore only act as a short-lived stimulant without any lasting value.

Two Face Trial In Cheque Case

Two men were committed to the Crown with a second similar charge. The Crown with a second similar charge. At the request of the Crown, Magistrate Byers remanded Burleson to April 21 for disposition on the supplying charge and ordered a similar remand on a charge Burleson was to have been sentenced on today. At the request of the probation officer, Burleson will be examined by a psychiatrist before sentencing on both counts.

IDENTICAL CHEQUES

The evidence showed that W. F. Donaldson of the Fairfield Hotel had found 25 identical cheques in an envelope March 20 on Cormorant, directly across from where Kantor had been arrested March 17.

Harvey Simons, assistant manager of the Safeway store at Burnside and Tillamook, identified Marek as having tried to cash a cheque there.

Jack Gatehouse, defending both men, said there was no evidence against Kantor on the charge of attempting to utter a forged document, but Magistrate J. A. Byers ruled for committal.

Paul Willard Franklin, 21, of 2639 Mt. Stephen, charged with rape, was released on $3,000 bail, and the date for his preliminary hearing was set as April 25.

Erna R. Makymetz, 18, of 880 Courtney, was given a one-year suspended sentence for shoplifting and placed on a $200 bond on her own recognizance.

Arrangements were made through the probation office to find her a place to live, and a job.

Miss Makymetz was arrested last month after stealing two pairs of nylons, and had spent a week in jail awaiting sentence.

John Considine Shaw of 2850 The Rise was fined $200 for an infraction of the Income Tax Act.

His lawyer said he had paid the arrears, and had paid a fine and arrears in the name of the company of which he was sole owner and operator.

"After having collected the arrears and the fine, to proceed on this is a bit sharp," Magistrate Byers commented, before he imposed the fine.

Ira Burleson, 78, of Plummer Bay, View Royal pleaded guilty to a charge of supplying liquor causing 14 girls to be treated in Royal Jubilee Hospital for nausea, headaches and stomach cramps.

U.S. Man on Joey: 'I Sort of Pity Him'

WASHINGTON (CP) — Investigator Edward C. Jaegerman of the United States Securities and Exchange Commission, told he has been called an "unsubstantiated liar" by Newfoundland Premier Smallwood, said Thursday: "I just sort of pity him."

"I assume he took parliamentary immunity when he made the statement," Jaegerman added.

The name-calling was the latest phase in the long feud between Canadian financier John

C. Doyle, defended stoutly by Smallwood, and U.S. authorities including Jaegerman.

Smallwood Wednesday in his legislature called Jaegerman the "arch liar of them all."

Jaegerman said: "The matters Smallwood complains about were all brought out in the open in court in this country and the Newfoundland attorney - general didn't see fit to appear - he refused to come into open court to question proceedings."

The court sentenced Doyle, a native of Chicago, to three years in prison when he pleaded guilty to one of several charges - the others were dismissed - namely, using the U.S. mails illegally to send unregistered stock of Canadian Javelin Ltd., which Doyle still controls.

Doyle moved to Canada in mid-1955, and has avoided serving the prison term, later reduced to three months. He claims he was double-crossed into pleading guilty on the one count.

Bus Tear Gas Charges

Juveniles Remanded for Week

Two boys charged after a Saanich school bus was filled with tear gas were remanded for one week Thursday in juvenile court, pending disposition of their case.

The youths, 15 and 16, were charged under a section of the Criminal Code which makes it an offence for any person to possess a substance which might do harm to others.

The charge arose from the explosion of a tear gas vial on a bus on Royal Oak near the Patricia Bay Highway Tuesday,

Behind Mica Creek Dam

By JOHN MATTERS

A Victoria man is trying to drum up support for a campaign against B.C. Hydro's plans to flood 105,000 acres of forest land behind the Mica Creek dam.

Elton Anderson, 3904 Cadboro View Road, is the principal author of a brief which suggests that the high reservoir area at least be slashed and as much timber as possible recovered before flooding.

The brief was presented to the B.C. water rights controller by the B.C. Natural Council. Mr. Anderson is chairman of the council's access and protection committee.

MORE VOICES

He's hoping unions, people in the Revelstoke, Golden and Valemount districts and other naturalists will add their voices to the protest.

The Mica dam, which will create a reservoir 125 miles long, will be 80 miles north of Revelstoke and will dam the Columbia River at a point where it breaks out of the Rocky Mountain Trench to the west.

The brief says the debris, if it isn't logged or burned, will entangle animals that try to swim across the lake. The scenic character of the lake would be destroyed and it would be useless to boats and float-equipped aircraft.

LESS COSTLY

Slashing costs would be about $50 an acre, compared to $600 an acre for clearing, the Natural Council suggests.

In addition to destroying the recreational potential the debris would produce "unwarranted hazards for loggers and other commercial users, inviting militant action from unions should fatalities occur."

The brief says 278 miles of rivers and streams will be lost by the flooding and suggests a thorough study be made of the fishery potential of the new lake.

"Such a fishery, however, cannot be utilized unless reservoir clearing makes access possible."

The Nature Council suggests will be needed for water tax planning start for a large public services to logging camps and campsites. In addition, marinas other points.

Chairman

Newly-elected chairman of provincial Public Library Commission is Robert D. Ferguson, 2881 Foul Bay. Manager of Montreal Trust here, he is a former member and chairman of Victoria Public Library Board.

'City Should Retain' Ambulance Service

The city should keep its emergency ambulance service in its own hands and not turn it over to a private operator, Ald. Robert Baird told city council Thursday.

"I am against this plan. When we are dealing in matters of life and death, money is inconsequential," said the alderman in a surprise attack against a proposal to set specifications before calling for tenders for operations of the service.

LOCAL FIRM

A proposition was recently made whereby a local firm would take over the city's ambulance, use its own for back-up vehicle, supply crew and pay all costs of the service for $2,000 a month.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

At the moment the service is operated by the city fire department. However, the department has notified the city it will need an additional eight men and a second vehicle.

It has been estimated the extra salaries would cost the city from $60,000 to $70,000 a year. For this reason serious consideration was given the private firm's proposal but it was decided other companies should be given a chance to bid.

OTHER POINTS

It was an alderman's duty to save the taxpayer money where he could, said Ald. Baird, but there were other considerations. "Watch out for empire-building," he warned. "Soon you will be asked for more vehicles, more services and more of everything."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said he was shocked to be asked for eight more men which would cost up to $100,000 before many more years were past.

Only Ald. Baird dissented in the vote on a resolution to have tender specifications prepared.

Calderswood Rites Friday

Master Mariner Dies

Master mariner Capt. Harry Calderwood died here Wednesday, he was 75.

Capt. Calderwood was a resident of Victoria since 1912. He was with the department of transport until his retirement.

He was a veteran of the First World War and a past master of Tyee Lodge No. 55 AF and AM of Prince Rupert and a member of the Ghok Temple, Prince George Shrine Club.

He is survived by two sons, Gordon, in England and Harry, in Vancouver; a daughter Mrs. Robert (Joan) Sindis of McLeod Lake; six grandchildren; two brothers, Capt. James Calderwood of Victoria and John Calderwood of Vancouver; three sisters, Mrs. J. P. Taylor and Mrs. E. Elms of Victoria, and Mrs. J. W. Peet of Weyburn, Sask.

Funeral services will be held in McCall Bros. chapel at 10:15 a.m. Friday.

Mix' Extra Thrill

By M. V. CHESSUT

In yesterday's column I described some of the different forms and varieties of amaranthus represented in our current Colonist free seed offer. We have been distributing free seeds to our readers now for 14 years, and I believe this is the first time I have ever offered a mixture of different varieties. I'm afraid "mixture" is a dirty word to the highly experienced hobby gardeners, for when these horticultural big shots sow a seed, they want to know beforehand just how tall the plant will grow, what shape, what color. For the ordinary backyard hardener, though, I think there is an extra thrill out of sowing a seed mixture; there is all the suspense of a sweepstake waiting to see just what kinds of amaranthus will turn up from your particular packet of Colonist seeds.

The luck of the draw could bring you anything from a tiny eight-inch amaranthus called Kias-me-over-the-gardengate to the huge Joseph's Coat, a foliage plant of many colors.

As I pointed out earlier this week, the easy way to grow amaranthus is to scatter the seeds on the ground where they are to grow, then thin them out after they come up to give each plant enough elbow room. The seeds are small, so it is best not to cover them at all, but scatter them VERY thinly on the surface and allow the rain to wash them in.

For various reasons, though, I think it is good insurance to start at least a few of your seeds indoors or under glass. For one thing, you may lose all your outdoor-sown plants through a sudden battering storm or to a hungry slug, and it is a good thing to have an ace in the hole in the form of a potful or two of indoor-started plants.

There is another reason, too, why it is a good idea to give a few of your free seeds a protected start in life. It is an unfortunate fact that many many of our best flowers look suspiciously like weeds when they first come up, and I know of more than one case where precious seedlings were pulled up by mistake.

By starting a few of your seeds indoors where you have them under close observation, you will recognize your outdoor-sown plants when they put in an appearance.

Last year I outlined a simple method for starting a few of the seeds in pots or boxes filled with sterilized soil — sterilized to prevent the damping-off disease which attacks young seedlings, and to kill off weed seeds in the soil. I have been finding it more convenient, though, to start small seeds in pure peat moss, or in a mixture of equal parts peat moss and vermiculite. These materials are already sterile and free from weed seeds.

The peat should be damp but not wet. The seeds are sprinkled thinly on its surface, then cover with a very thin sifting of more peat moss. Keep in a warm place until the seedlings appear, then transfer to a cool but very sunny location. The young plants may be transplanted to their outdoor location when about three inches tall.

Bat Honeymoon Ends

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Adam (Batman) West is due back in Hollywood from his South Pacific bat honeymoon with ex-wife Ngarua — she's the daughter of a Polynesian princess. And the palpating question is: did the trial reconciliation take? "We hope so," chorus their two children. In the fall, Adam will have a bat girl, Yvonne Craig, on his show which has been renewed for another season.

Jerry Lewis is determined to be the best-dressed boy on television when his show hits the TV tubes this fall. He currently has 350 suits hanging in his huge dressing room — it was a library when it belonged to the late Louis B. Mayer, and he has ordered another 39 suits from By Deyers — one for each show. You see, it's like this. Jerry is allergic to suits that have been cleaned — only a millionaire can afford this allergy — so when a suit gets dirty he gives it away — to the young kids trying to make it in Hollywood.

Bob Hope's doctor has pronounced his injured eye 100 per cent okay. He had some trouble with it, if you remember, during a freezing winter trip to Europe. More recently getting into his car, he damaged the same eye when a dog whined it with a mighty sweep of his tail, brushing it quite badly.

Hayley Mills is hoping to complete her Singapore scenes in Pretty Polly, to get back to London in time to celebrate her 21st birthday next Tuesday. And perhaps to announce her engagement or marriage with British producer Roy Boulting.

Ursula Andress is teaching Jean-Paul Belmondo how to speak in English. With Ursula's fractured Swiss accent, what will finally emerge from Jean-Paul, who has resisted the language all this time? Well, it will be interesting anyway.

Twiggy, the walking pile, was invited to Hollywood, but I don't think she's coming, which is good news for people with a normal figure. What are they trying to do? Turn girls into skinny knock-kneed boys? The whole thing is absolutely ridiculous to me, but not to the dress buyers for the teenagers, apparently. The U.S. order for Twiggywaddle is expected to reach $10,000,000 this year. Jean Shrimpton started the little girl look, but it was rule and girls were allowed to have a bit of a figure. I bet Twiggy won't last in the fashion world as long as Jean did.

Everything is coming up career roses for Beryl Reid, who won the Tony for her masculine role in The Killing of Sister George on Broadway. She has a fat part in Star! with Julie Andrews. I somehow can't see Raymond Massey as Noel Coward in the picture, but he will be. Richard Crenna is down as the husband of Gertrude Lawrence. But they don't say which one.

Martin Balsara, star of a new comedy hit on Broadway, You Know I Can't Hear You When The Water's Running, plays something quite different in Stanley Kubrick's movie, 2001: A Space Odyssey. You can hear him but you can't see him. Marty is the voice of a computer.

Hilton Eyes Pentagon

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien's radical proposal to do away with the post office department and make it into a non-profit government corporation is getting serious study here. His reason for making the suggestion is that the post office is a money-losing proposition and he feels it should pay its own way.

Let us peek in on a cabinet meeting a few years from today.

"Gentlemen, the President of the United States." "All right, let's get the meeting underway. We'll hear from the Chairman of the Board of the Interior." "I'm happy to announce, Mr. President, that the Interior Corporation is in the black. We had to sell the Grand Canyon to do it, but we still have Yellowstone Park, and by raising the rents on the Indian reservations we should have a banner year."

"Very good. What about the Labor Corporation?" "That's wonderful, Willard. Are we still charging a substantial fee for invoking the Taft-Hartley Act?" "Yes, sir, it's been one of our best money-makers."

"Fine. Now let's hear from the Chairman of the Justice Corporation."

"Mr. President, I'm happy to say that Justice is holding its own. We lost money on our crime cases, but we showed a profit selling bugging equipment to private companies. We used the surplus to buy a racetrack outside of Washington and it's doing very well."

"As long as you don't keep it open on Sundays, I guess there's nothing wrong with it. Does the Transportation Chairman have anything to report?"

"I have one suggestion, sir, which could get us even."

"What's that?" "Conrad Hilton wants to buy the Pentagon and rename it the McNamara Hilton."

"Let him put in a bid and we'll consider it. I guess that winds it up for today. Oh, by the way, next week we're meeting at the Shoreham Hotel instead of here."

"How's that, Mr. President?" "Howard Johnson's has just leased the White House from us at very favorable terms."

"As you know, Mr. President, we merged with General Motors and we were doing fine until Ralph Nader wrote a sequel to Unsafe At Any Speed. Now car sales are off. We've asked the justice

Mrs. Wilson

Alderman 'Shocked' by Operator

Ald. Lily Wilson told a meeting of city council Thursday that she was "surprised and profoundly shocked" recently at the behavior of an operator of a private hospital.

The hospital proprietor had a welfare patient taken by ambulance to a rest home — which had had its licence suspended by the provincial government some time before.

No reason was given for the action, the alderman said, but she assumed that it was because the bed was needed for a patient who could pay more than the $230 a month allowed by the government for maintenance of welfare patients.

"This was done without consulting the patient and without the knowledge of welfare people. He just ordered the ambulance and said, 'Take this patient to this address.'"

It was a callous thing to do, and such lack of consideration just could not be tolerated, the alderman added.

Mrs. Wilson earlier reported on the plight of welfare patients in the district. Most of them were housed in private hospitals and the provincial government paid $230 a month for their maintenance. Hospital operators thought this too little and were eager to get rid of them.

In addition, there were patients awaiting admittance for whom there just wasn't any room.

She and Coun. Edith Gunning of Saanich took a plea to Welfare Minister Campbell, asking that more hospitals be provided for such chronic care cases and the provincial allowance be increased.

Reporting to council Thursday, Ald. Wilson claimed the minister said he didn't see how the $230 could be boosted, but assured her there would be no evictions.

However, temporary measures would not bring about a cure for the situation, Mrs. Wilson said. They would ease the strain but until more beds were made available there would be no permanent solution.

Hon. Mr. Bernard advertises that the fare from Yale to Soda Creek has been reduced to 50c. This is an important reduction and the liberality of the proprietor will, we are sure, be truly appreciated by the travelling public.

A dead body was found in the bushes near the Willows on the Cadboro Bay Road on Saturday evening by children gathering wild flowers. The remains were used and officer Taylor, who examined them, discovered no evidence of violence having been used to produce death. The body is recognized as that of a Nanaimo woman, who until lately lived with a man near the bushes. The man went away about a month ago and the woman has been missing ever since.

A cricket match between 11 officers and 11 men of HMS Malacca came off at Colwood on Friday and was won by the officers' 11, who scored 25 points to 23 scored by the men. The score will appear to-morrow.

'Royal' Name Stays For Athletic Park

By A. H. MURPHY
Victoria may be a bustling, wide-awake city with an annual budget of $15,000,000 and an unlimited potential as a tourist and convention centre to some people, but to Aid. Geoffrey Edgelow it is still a little bit of old England.

School Ends - Sea Ahead

A Wellington sailor graduates from the RCN's Fleet School in Esquimalt today tops in his class in technical training.

The proposal was rejected. "Dear old Victoria and little old Royal Athletic Park — more British than Britain itself, they say," the alderman led off.

"I think if you asked the public they would say 'No, don't do that — don't drop the royal,' and I'm afraid I would have to vote against any such proposal," Aid. Edgelow continued.

Medical evidence given at Thursday night's inquest into the death of Mario Fata, 19, shot outside his Pizza Palace on Douglas Street Saturday night, showed he died from a massive internal hemorrhage.

Pathologist Dr. Garth Walther told the jury the slug entered Fata's chest on the left side of the breastbone and travelled through the chest, penetrating the aorta and the pulmonary artery, the left chamber of the heart, splintered the 12th rib on the left side and lodged in the pelvic muscle.

Dr. J. W. B. Redford, 38, has been appointed professor and director of the school of rehabilitative medicine at the University of Alberta, his parents, Capt. and Mrs. Walter Redford of 106 Beech Drive, said Thursday.

He explained this is the practice where criminal charges of the sort involved in this case have been laid.

Many of the youngsters, all of whom are under 12, suffer congenital illnesses. Greg has Legg-Perthes disease, an ailment of the hip joint, that requires absolute rest of his left leg. He could be discharged in six months.

No Racket Probe Says City RCMP

Victoria RCMP are not investigating charges that an extortion racket is being worked up on East Indian forest product workers, a senior officer said late Thursday.

Plans in Offing

The owners of the old YMCA building at the corner of Blanshard and View Streets were given three weeks Thursday to clean it up and make it secure against vandals.

Owners Will Tidy Old YMCA Building

The building was described as a fire trap and a danger to the whole downtown area, at a council meeting two weeks ago. At that time the owners were told to show reason why a demolition order should not be issued.

Money Eased

"We have an interest in this property and if Mr. Mace's principals do not clean it up, we will," he said.

Official complaints about the alleged offences," he said and emphasized that no member of the Victoria RCMP detachment had made any statement to the contrary.

One report published elsewhere claimed an RCMP spokesman had said, "This matter has been reported to us and is under investigation. More than one RCMP division is involved."

'Customer Opinion'

Welfare Gains New Look

There's a new look in the provincial child welfare department, and officials are taking a tip from private business and sampling "customer opinion."

According to provincial superintendent of child welfare Don Bingham, the department is trying to make changes not so much in regulations as in attitudes.

Three conferences are being held almost end to end by the social welfare department, to update its child welfare program.

Thursday the second annual foster parents' conference opened in Victoria, with some 70 parents and 35 social workers in attendance.

Improvements sought
Sunday there will be up to 800 delegates at a conference for the Northwest region of the Child Welfare Leagues of America.

More organized
He said three years ago there had been only three organized groups of foster parents in the province, but this number had increased to 35.

Workshops
By-passing "channels" Mr. Bingham had a discussion Thursday with social workers and representatives of agencies.

Power source
Mark Loughheed, 13, had been reading about flying saucers and recalled a theory that they took power from transmission lines.

There's it was!
"Then we went to the back door — and there it was," said his father. He said the object was a circle of whitish-orange light, made no sound and moved extremely fast.

Five members of the family watched the object and agreed that it travelled 90 degrees in 30 seconds, curving over the city. It disappeared over the horizon in a southeasterly direction.

We Learn to Be Parents . . .

Mistreatment of Children Inherited

Copley News Service
SACRAMENTO — If your parents were abusive to their children it is likely that you, too, mistreat your youngsters.
 Parents who mistreat or neglect their children come from homes where they were ignored or badly beaten.
 Other neglectful parents were severely rejected emotionally as children by their parents, shunned or discarded. Many of these parents grew up in foster homes or institutions.
 People learn to be parents from their own parents.
 This is part of a capsule portrait given in a penetrating and comprehensive 40-page report on abused and neglected children in California by the State Assembly Interim Committee on Social Welfare.

 This picture helps answer the question:
 "Who are these parents who beat their children or neglect them in California?"
 Of known cases, more than 1,000 California tots are beaten annually by their parents and more than 50,000 are neglected in their homes, according to the report.
 California has been concerned about this problem of child beaters and neglectful parents. The Golden State may have been the first state with a law making parental abuse of a child a felony.

 In 1955 the Legislature passed a bill making it mandatory that physicians, dentists or other practitioners report all injuries suffered by children that appeared to have been inflicted by other than accidental means. Last year that law was expanded to include mandatory reporting by school principals and superintendents and directors of county welfare departments.
 The law provides that the doctors and others making the reports to law agencies shall not incur any civil or criminal liability as a result of making such reports.

 Copies of such reports go to the state Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation. California also may have been the first state to create a central registry of child beaters.
 Of all of the abusive or neglectful parents studied for the legislative report, only 3 per cent had any pleasant memories of childhood.
 Parents whose parents clubbed them, beat their own kids. Over half the unsatisfactory parents had liquor problems. Poor health was another factor. Mental retardation was higher in the abusive parents than generally.

The report said abusive parents tend to be possessive of their children, to oppose friendships and personal attachments outside the family, and are secretive and spurn outside help.
 Both neglectful and abusive families are isolated from others in the community.
 A very small proportion of either neglectful or abusive families has any religious affiliation or habit of attending church.
 A legislative bill this year would establish a wide-ranged protective services for children in California.

Golden Wedding Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tupman celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, April 9, at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Campbell, 1747 Lillian Road. Many beautiful gifts, floral bouquets and an anniversary cake were presented to the guests of honor. A wire and floral bouquet was received from their son and daughter-in-law in Kitimat, Mr. and Mrs. D. Tupman. Pictures were taken by Mr. J. McVie of the guests of honor and their attendants, Mr. and Mrs. L. Tupman, Mr. and Mrs. F. Tupman were married in Saskatoon in 1917, coming to Victoria in 1920. Out-of-town guests attending were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. D. Burnett from Nanaimo and Mrs. C. Pendray from Vancouver. Also present were Mrs. W. Kell, Mr. and Mrs. V. Tupman, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Eden, Mr. and Mrs. W. Martin, Rev. and Mrs. A. E. King, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hobden, Mrs. D. Austin, Mrs. W. S. Phillips, and Misses W. Horrocks and E. Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you said, "This is the Year of the Ear." You were responding to a reader who was questioning the wisdom of piercing her ears.

I would like to correct you Madame. This is really "The Year of the Ear." I am an attorney who is normally mild-mannered and slow to anger, but the revolting appearance of broad-beamed women in too tight and too short skirts has moved me to write my first letter to a newspaper.

It is bad enough to view these females coming, but to watch them going is too great a burden on males who must observe the spectacle. If a woman is not aware of the grotesque picture she presents, why doesn't her best friend tell her? Please rush your answer. I am sinking fast. GOGGLED EYED

Dear Goggled: Because her best friend is probably wearing a skirt that is too tight and too short also and thinks she is a knockout. I have said it before and I'll say it again. Mid-knee should be the limit for a woman over 30 — yes, even if she has a figure that would shatter a glass eye at forty paces. What some women consider high style is actually low taste. A skirt that is too tight and too short can make a woman appear ludicrous.

Dear Ann Landers: The high school is a 20-minute walk from home. There are no buses out here. The problem is our 16-year-old son. I'm in a car pool with a neighbor whose daughter is 14 (same age as our daughter). I drive the girls one week and the neighbor drives them the next. Our son is welcome to ride along but he refuses to ride with the girls. He insists that my husband drop him off on his way to work.

 This morning it was raining and my husband was behind schedule. The neighbor was out in front but our son refused her offer of a ride. He said he would wait for his father. I blew my top and said he was too demanding. My husband took the boy's side, said he was shy and I shouldn't force him.

This "shy" boy has been going to teen dances, doing the monkey and the jerk for almost two years. Please referee this battle. Ann. — FIGHT FIGHT FIGHT

Dear Fight: Unless your son is handicapped he should walk to school, and this goes for your 14-year-old daughter as well.
 Chauffeur service for abled-bodied children is part of the "Spoiled Kid Syndrome" which promotes laziness and a lack of initiative.

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever a letter that belittles women appears in your column, my husband hands it to me and says, "Ann Landers is sure a smart dame."
 I know I'm not perfect but you don't help any by printing all those letters that make women look foolish.

Don't tell me "if the shoe fits wear it." I have heard all your smart cracks at least twice. Who named you the Brain Queen of 1967? — SICK OF YOU
 Dear Sick: So far, only your husband, but that's enough for now.

Mme. Vanier Kisses Young Army Captain

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP) — Friends of the late governor-general and his wife gathered Wednesday to say goodbye to Mrs. Georges Vanier, leaving to make her home in Montreal.

The informal charm Mme. Vanier brought to her role as first lady was evident in the brief ceremony at Ottawa station.
 As she was about to board the vice-regal car she stopped to chat with a workman, Rene Provost, a car inspector.
 Mr. Provost took off his oil-stained glove to take Mme. Vanier's offered hand.
 "I've met her before — she'll shake hands with anybody," said Mr. Provost. She's friendly people.

DIPLOMATS THERE
 Prime Minister Pearson, cabinet members, diplomats and representatives of churches and armed services were gathered on the platform.
 Mme. Vanier, wearing a black cloth coat and black hat, inspected the guard of honor, 50 scarlet-coated, bearskin-hatted men from the 2nd Battalion, the Canadian Guards.

 The Guards band played military tunes as she moved along the platform, shaking hands and chatting briefly with the official party, which included Immigration Minister Marchand and State Secretary LaMarsh.

Miss LaMarsh presented her with a small bouquet of pink roses, carnations, and grape hyacinths.
 Mme. Vanier had a special goodbye for Capt. David Hyman, aide-de-camp during the funeral ceremonies for the late governor-general. She took the young officer's hand, then leaned forward to kiss his cheek.
 Her youngest son Michel accompanied her on the journey in the same cars that took the family to the funeral in Quebec City.

 Making her last trip with Mme. Vanier was lady-in-waiting Sidney Shakespeare, 26, Auburn-haired Miss Shakespeare is leaving Government House service and left for her home in Vancouver Wednesday night.

Woman Told:

Spruce Up Comrade!

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet women were advised Wednesday to pay more attention to their looks and charm. Men were told to look upon them as something more than a comrade worker.

"We need an art which educates young boys to admire the miracle of beauty in women and young girls to aspire to imitate the examples of such beauty," said Literaturnaya (Soviet Literary Gazette), a weekly newspaper.

"Along with the full equality of women we need a cult of women's charm."
 The publication complains that Soviet women often are negligent about their appearance. There has been a tendency under communism to regard attention to clothes, makeup and hairdo as a waste of time.
 The article was written by 65-year-old Dlya Selivanov, a poet.

At Ganges

Mouat Bros. Mark 60th Year

April is an important milestone in the history of the Mouat family of Salt Spring Island. For it was April 60 years ago that Mrs. Jane Mouat, widow of Thomas William, and her family moved from their farm at St. Mary's Lake to take over the store at Ganges.

It was a family enterprise and it still is. And to celebrate this momentous occasion there was a big birthday party held recently at the Salt Spring Island Golf and Country Club.

Mouat Bros. Ltd. were hosts to 70 persons, including directors, shareholders, employees and managers of business firms on Mouat's Point.

Seated at the head table which was centred with a giant birthday cake, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Foulis, were Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Mouat, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Mouat, Mr. and Mrs. Laurie Mouat, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Mouat, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Butterfield and Miss M. I. Scott.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mouat, Abbottsford, Mr. and Mrs. Colin F. Mouat, Federal Way, Wash., Oliver W. Mouat, Camano, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. A. Bryant, Brentwood, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Mouat, Vancouver; Dick Toynbee, Terrace and Jeremy Mouat, Brentwood College.

Gifts were presented to Miss Scott and Mr. Butterfield in recognition of long and faithful service.

W. N. Mouat was master of ceremonies for the evening and gave an interesting talk on the history of the Mouat family and the store during the past 60 years.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas William Mouat, were married in 1882 in Cullivert, Shetland. His mother, born Jane Manson in 1859 in Setter, Sandwick Parish, Shetland.

Two years after their marriage, the Mouats set out for the new world with destination Nanaimo where they both had relatives and friends.

Leaving in May they travelled across the United States as the Canadian Pacific was not yet through to Vancouver.

The journey across the States was unbroken until reaching Spokane where they stopped to visit Mr. Mouat's elder brother, Gavin Colvin and to await the birth of William Manson Mouat in August.

October saw the family setting out again and the journey was continued until reaching the bustling, coal mining centre of Nanaimo.

It was soon after their arrival that they heard of a farm for sale at St. Mary's Lake on Salt Spring Island. After seeing the farm they purchased the property from a Negro couple, Mr. and Mrs. Copeland.

Early in February, 1885 the Mouats moved to the Island and soon had a productive farm established.

As the family grew in numbers, more accommodation was needed than the two storey log cabin could provide. So the late William Herd came from Duncan to build the house that still stands on the hill above the lake.

The father of the young family was never of robust health and in October 1888 he died leaving his widow and 11 children. An infant daughter died shortly after her father.

Then came a time of hard struggle and work to maintain the farm profitably. The courage, devotion and faith of their mother saw them through this time according to the Mouat family.

The site of the Mouat store on the little peninsula at Ganges was originally owned by Mr. Charles Tolson and later by his brother, Leonard. Later it was bought by Malcolm and Purvis as store site and residence.

Gilbert Mouat worked for Malcolm and Purvis and when he learned that the business and property were for sale he decided that this would be a good thing for the Mouat family.

There was one serious stepping stone — money. But Jane Mouat was behind her son in this new undertaking and she raised the required down payment. And so the G. J. Mouat & Co. came into being.

Two years later in 1909, William who was then attending Columbian College, was asked by his mother and brother to join the firm. He did and the name was changed to Mouat Brothers Company.

The original store building provided space in the front for the general stock. It also housed the Post Office (still does), the Dominion Government Telegraph and Telephone Service. It also offered the first public telephone on Salt Spring connected by cable to Vancouver Island.

As the business was expanding rapidly and more staff engaged, the need for a larger building was soon evident. Plans were drawn up for the structure which opened in 1912 and still stands.

At the time of expansion there was a lot of vacant space. But the years soon took care of that until now there are three floors providing space for merchandise.

It was not always smooth sailing. There were two major depressions to be weathered.

A serious blow came when Gilbert, the founder, contracted polio in 1915. He became paralyzed in both arms and legs, and was away from the business for six months.

The use of his arms came back but he remained paralyzed in the legs. When he realized that he would never walk again, undaunted, he decided to return and manage the business from his wheel chair.

In the early years of this family business everyone pitched in to help. Hours were long, from early morning until 10 at night.

Only once during the 60 years was there any trouble. And Mr. William Mouat still chuckles over this episode. It seems there was a colored boy on the island who had an unquenchable hunger for cigarettes.

So one morning when they went to open up they found one of the windows broken. Only cigarettes were missing.

It wasn't hard to round up the culprit who was given a stern lecture. It worked because he never did it again.

Probably no history of the Mouat family can go without a mention of an outstanding member, the late Gavin Mouat, who did so much to promote and bring Salt Spring Island to the fore.

Mouat Bros. Ltd. is still very much a family business and is at present managed by sons of the founder, Lawrence and Mac Mouat.

The mothers of Guides and Brownies in the Lanadowne district are busily preparing for a coffee party, to be held in St. George's Church Hall, Cadboro Bay, next Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The convener, Mrs. M. Yates, reports that a variety of luscious cakes, pies, cookies and other items will be available at a home cooking stall.

Funds raised from the project will be used to buy badges and periodicals for Guides, pay for hall rentals and expenses of Guides and Guides attending conventions and camps.

The Mouat family in 1908, a year after taking over the general store in Ganges. Back row, Jeremiah (died in 1913), Lawrence (died 1909), William Gilbert (died 1946) and Gavin (died 1961.) Front,

TV TALK

Television goes adult tonight, and many people may not like it. At 9:30, NBC (Channel 5) presents The Investigation, a play by Peter Weiss...

Indeed, those actors who play the part of witnesses in tonight's TV production all became ill. John Marley, one of the actors, said, "I had one illness after another from the day the show went into rehearsal and so did the other actors playing the parts of witnesses. We all realized it was not for physical but for emotional reasons."

Pulp-IWA Link Blasted

Who Packs Gun on Nuptial Barge?

At locals of the IWA and Pulp-Sulphite walk nervously down the aisle, the temple is filled with shrill cries of "Who's got the shotgun?"

The choir's solemn rendering of Solidarity Forever is marred by insults tossed like tomatoes from the back pews.

The Canadian Labor Congress, officiating at the ceremony, stands splattered and brick-scarred at the altar.

And one thing is certain: If this marriage produces one union, there will be many to question the babe's paternity.

Allen Raps Critics

Here's a quick list of wedding guests, in their many moods: Syd Thompson, Vancouver IWA president, disassociated himself from the marriage.

Weldon Jubenville, head of the powerful Duncan IWA local, said "It is a shotgun marriage."

Jack Moore, regional official of the IWA, admitted the regional council is split over the alliance with the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers at Gold River.

Walter Allen, president of the Port Alberni local, fired back: "Our critics within the IWA just need more experience, and they would understand the problems."

Bill Cox, an official of the Union, said "It is an AFL and CLC fallacy that might be right."

John Squire, Port Alberni business agent for the IWA, hinted from Gold River that it might now be easier to win the campaign for the support of pulp workers at the mill.

Claude Jodoin, head of the Canadian Labor Congress, made the initial announcement of application for joint certification by the Port Alberni IWA and Pulp-Sulphite for the new Gold River mill.

Vice-president Cox of Crafton Local 2 of the Canadian union said, "I think the action of the IWA and Pulp Sulphite confirms our suspicions the IWA was merely assisting Pulp-Sulphite to obtain certification in Gold River contrary to the wishes of the employees by any and all means."

The so-called Canadian Labor Congress, better described as the Canadian branch of the American Federation of Labor, has been sure to turn to its high-handed dictation of its hierarchy.

Knocking of Heads

The opinion of executive vice-president Joe Morris when he said Pulp-Sulphite should resist the knocking of heads, is indicative of their form of unionism.

"When you can disregard basic union principles and policies it is simple to completely disregard people as well."

The alliance between the IWA local and the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill workers does not embrace all the other locals of the IWA, Mr. Moore said.

Mr. Thompson said "Joint certification as now proposed by... Moore and the Port Alberni local, means the IWA members in the Talsis Co. are to be used to win the Gold River Pulp mill for the International Pulp Union."

The Vancouver local maintains the agreement, sanctioned by the Canadian Labor Congress, constitutes a disregard of the policies agreed to March 29 at a special regional executive board meeting.

The meeting decided unanimously that the IWA reject the CLC proposal of joint application. Mr. Thompson said.

Mr. Allen replied, "We are prepared to back the record of the Port Alberni local against the record of any local in the regional council, in respect to honesty and integrity."

The objective of the suggested alliance between the IWA and the Pulp-Sulphite, is to present a common front to a common employer at the bargaining table, with each union retaining its separate identity.

"We intend to do everything that is honest and honorable in the formation of one union in the forest products industry, representing all workers from stump to finished product," the Port Local head said.

Mr. Jubenville said "The officers of IWA local 1-88 publicly disassociate themselves from the officers of Port Alberni local, regional president Jack Moore, and regional third vice-president Maurice Corbett, who have flagrantly disregarded a majority decision."

"This pledged all-out support of Local 1-88 to obtain a variances certification, covering all employees of the Talsis Co. Limited."

"We further condemn the high handed action of the CLC in disregarding policies of IWA regional council."

"In our opinion the shotgun marriage of local 1-88 and the O'N'e addressed International Pulp and Sulphite Union, does nothing less than deny the membership at Gold River the right to join the union of their choice."

IWA business agent John Squire was in Gold River representing the IWA. He said "I feel the reaction of Talsis employees to the news about one union, was very good. They see it as a move to stop

Train Crew 'Blameless'

COURTENAY - A six-member coroner's jury Thursday night attached no blame to the train crew involved in a multiple road fatality March 31 in Courtenay.

The jury found that Mrs. Betty Jorgensen, 39, her children Janet, 10, William, 8, and Donald, 6, died as a result of the car driver not exercising proper care "at this hazardous crossing."

The four were sole occupants of a car which smashed into a freight train at 10:30 a.m. at the E and N level crossing on Fraser Road.

The inquest, before Coroner Tom Madden, was told that the family died instantly from gross multiple injuries.

"We were about 50 feet from the intersection when I saw the car approaching. I could see it wasn't going to stop... and it did it."

Music Festival

Pace Slackens Off In Fewer Classes

By BERT BINNY
The pace at the Greater Victoria Music Festival slackened off somewhat again Thursday.
Monday started off fast and furious, with eight sessions; Tuesday there were seven, Wednesday five and Thursday only three.
Today there are no competitive classes at all but, at 8 p.m., the curtain at Central Junior secondary school goes up on the Schools Honor Performance.
All 18 of yesterday's classes were in the school choral division, two in the morning, six in the afternoon and 10 in the evening.
The age level went all the way from Nursery School to senior high.
Monterey's elementary composite choir earned a healthy 176 points out of a possible 200 and a Victoria West school composite choir took the Folk Song class with 173. Running second in each of these classes were Sir James Douglas elementary in the first and St. Patrick's in the second, each with 170.
Afternoon classes were all for private school entries; eight altogether in the six classes and representing five schools.
It was, however, not until late in the afternoon that the highest mark for both sessions appeared.

This was the excellent 188 awarded by adjudicator Allan Boyer to Holy Angels School composite choir, which he described as "one of the finest groups I have heard."
The six junior high school classes in the evening were contested by only three schools. Colquitz competed in every class; Oak Bay in three and St. Ann's Academy in one.
The first three senior high school classes also produced only single entries with actual competition only in the last.
Choral adjudicator Allan Boyer, who comes to the festival from the University at Pullman, Washington, does much more than merely separate the sheep, as it were, from the goats.

He not only allots marks — which don't last very long — but he also gives lucid, practical advice — which does.
Class 65, for example, enjoyed a free clinic and demonstration on the allied arts of hissing and snoring, both advocated means of loosening up throats and jawlines.
These and other wrinkles were all explained by the adjudicator along with his clear delineation of the particular strengths and weaknesses displayed by the various competitors.

City Dancers Island Winners

Young Victoria dancers excelled in this week's Upper Island Music Festival at Nanaimo. Although three live up-Island, all are members of the Wynne Shaw Studio.
Their results:
Sole ballet, open, Madelyn Ponich, 1, 87.
Pas de deux, open, Maureen

Lawson and Madelyn Ponich, 1 (tie), 90.
Solo ballet under 18, point, Maureen Lawson, 1, 90.
Solo ballet under 18, soft shoe, Maureen Lawson, 1, 89; Colleen De Corte, 2, 87 (tie).
Solo ballet under 15, Pamela Stoddart, 1, 88; Maureen Fraser, 2, 85.
Classical ballet group, under 18, Wynne Shaw Studio, 1, 89; Tina Bacon, Colleen De Corte, Ina Dabrow, Cheryl Moore, Lynda Poulton.

Folk dance group, under 15, Wynne Shaw Studio, 1, 95, performing the same Mexican Birdsemaids' dance with which they won top honors, also this week, in the Victoria Music Festival.

Rations Better

EDMONTON (CP) — Participants in the $300-mile centennial canoe pageant to Montreal from Rocky Mountain House, Alta., won't be eating the traditional food of voyageurs.

Pageant officials said Thursday the diet will consist of 30,000 eggs, 2½ tons of bacon, 6,000 pancakes, 10,000 quarts of milk, 2½ tons of potatoes and six tons of steaks.

Voyageurs of old usually relied on pemmican made from dried buffalo meat, fat and wild berries.

Aircraft Exchanges Polar Explorers

NEW YORK (CP) — A supply aircraft landed successfully Wednesday at the Plaiated polar expedition's advance — party campsite and carried out an exchange of personnel.

Five men who had been out on the Arctic ice for several days returned in the plane to rest at the base camp at Eureka, N.W.T. Three men from the Eureka base joined Ralph Plaiated, leader of the expedition, at the forward camp.

Joining Plaiated were Dr. Art Aufderheide, a Duluth, Minn., pathologist; dentist Blair Woolsey, who is a U.S. Marine reserve major, and Jean-Luc Bombardier, 28, mechanical engineer from Valcourt, Que.

Don Powellek, one of the men withdrawn to Eureka, reported by radio to the expedition's radio anchorman in St. Paul, Minn., that the decision to reduce by two the number of men in the advance party was made because of high ice ridges the group has encountered. The party is travelling by snow sled.

The reports on the expedition are being distributed by CBS radio.

Negotiable Travellers' Cheques

Knowledgeable Gunmen Grab $620,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four knowledgeable gunmen made a lightning raid on a heavily guarded United States Line pier Thursday and stole a record $620,000 worth of negotiable American Express travellers' cheques.

Police said the invaders apparently "knew exactly what they wanted." They selected two metal-lined wooden boxes containing the travellers' cheques from a bin of valuable shipments on the "bonded" Hudson River pier, leaving everything else behind.

THIRD THEFT

It was the third big theft from international shipments in a week, bringing the total in missing gold, currency and banknotes to $1,150,000. American Express said it was the largest single theft of its travellers' cheques in the firm's 76-year history.

The FBI joined police in an investigation of the daring robbery and it was believed that Interpol, the International Police Organization, would join in the search for the gunmen. American Express alerted banks, its offices, and law enforcement officials around the world to be on the lookout for the stolen cheques.

PIER GUARDS

The gunmen were described by pier guards as swarthy, dark-haired Caucasians in their 30s, wearing dark clothes and carrying revolvers. They paired off to carry away the shipping cases which weighed about 135 pounds each and contained $220,000 worth of $10 cheques and $400,000 worth of $20 cheques.

The cases were delivered to the United States Line pier Wednesday morning by a Wells Fargo armored truck. They were being shipped to the American Express distributing centre in Frankfurt, Germany, by the American Bank Note Co. which prints the travellers' cheques.

Just after midnight Thursday, the gunmen approached Fred Crowley, 43, of Yonkers, N.Y., he was on guard at a booth at the pier entrance. They handcuffed him and covered his eyes and mouth with tape. Then they pushed him into the pier offices where they also handcuffed and blindfolded two other guards, George Kelly, 37, and John Walsh, 50, both of New York.

The men intercepted a fourth guard, Ernest Altamirano, 46, of Great Neck, N.Y., on the pier. Having run out of handcuffs, they bound Altamirano's hands behind him, gagged him, and put him in the office with the other guards.

FIVE MINUTES

The bandits spent about five minutes in the pier's "crib," where most of the valuables are stored, the guards said, apparently searching for a particular shipment. After they made off with the travellers' cheques, Altamirano freed himself and called police.

A spokesman for American Express said the shipment was fully covered by insurance. The firm said it was offering a substantial reward for information leading to the apprehension of the bandits.

the size of which would depend on the importance of the information.

Secords Invited to Join United Front

Room for All in Dalton's Camp

OTTAWA (CP) — Dalton Camp said Thursday he hopes to form a united front of conservative political forces at the national level, including alignment with Social Credit supporters.

for such an alignment in an address Wednesday. His remarks on the subject received relatively little attention from reporters seeking a clear picture on whether Mr. Camp will be a candidate next September for the leadership of his party. That question remained unanswered, although Mr. Camp left the door open for a later declaration of his candidacy. His statements on unity closely paralleled those of recent months by Premier Ernest Manning, Alberta's Social Credit leader who has called for all Conservatives to unite under one banner. In his Wednesday speech, Mr. Camp said: "It's becoming obvious surely that at this time in our history there is in this country an urgent need for party reconsecration, for party realignment."

serious observer of politics must agree, that the separation in practical political terms between almost all the minority parties and one or other of the major parties is largely rhetorical and illusory. Mr. Camp held out a realignment as the solution to the problem of chronic minority government.

Injunction Granted

Arrow Order Bans Pickets

CASTLEGAR (CP) — The British Columbia Supreme Court Thursday granted a four-day injunction to B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, allowing the company to ban picketing of the High Arrow dam project by striking electrical workers.

Six-Month Sucker

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Arthur Kyker, 31, was sentenced Wednesday in Knox County Criminal Court to six months in jail for stealing one jollipop. Police said Kyker was caught in a hindergarten Feb. 28 with the loot in his pocket.

Rewrite Likely

Immigrant Proposals Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — A thorough revision of the federal white paper on immigration appears in the works as a disgruntled special parliamentary committee prepares to make its report.

Few of the 37 briefs the joint Senate-Commons committee have heard have been more critical of the white paper than the MPs themselves.

The committee hearings are a preliminary to parliamentary revision of the 14-year-old Immigration Act.

As the hearings ended Thursday, Senator Harry Willis (PC-Ontario) said he feels that his emphasis on skill and education discriminates against Italians.

MEET HAVE GRADE XI Meadville, Herb Gray (L-Essex West) said that department officials, who wrote the report, weren't able to back up its allegations with facts.

The white paper proposals basically would restrict entry to those with the equivalent of a Grande XI education.

However, a number of briefs said the policy would discriminate against southern Europeans, who often have limited educations.

Work by almost 500 men halted earlier Thursday when five members of Local 999 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers set up a picket line claiming "hot" power was being used at the site in south-central B.C.

The electrical workers' union is striking against West Kootenay Power and Light Co., the company which supplies power to the construction sites. Trevor Collins, spokesman for B.C. Hydro, said only 16 workers of a possible 500 men showed up for the afternoon shift Thursday, rather than cross the picket line.

CONTRARY TO LAW The injunction, granted by Mr. Justice Kirke Smith of the Supreme Court, went into effect about midnight, enabling night crews to resume work. It was served by Mr. Edward Peck, general manager of Columbia Hydro Constructors, the company which handles employment at the damsite.

The injunction was granted because picketing customers of a struck firm is contrary to law. The electrical workers are seeking a 47 per cent increase over the $3.12 per hour paid to tradesmen and a 34 cent hourly increase over the $2.29 paid laborers. They are also asking for a 2 1/2-hour reduction in their 60-hour work week.

ESTADOS UNIDOS Happiness is... somewhere other than Punta del Este

Johnson Just Plum Glum

By STUART LOOBY

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (LAT) — With the United States' Latin American policy under attack, President Johnson sat in the chiefs of state summit meeting Thursday at times wearing the expression of a little boy awaiting an appointment with the dentist.

Glum was the word for the American leader. He appeared not angry, not sad, but downtrodden as Ecuador's acting president, Otto Arosemena, publicly castigated American policy in some of the toughest talk one country's leader has used to another in recent years, including the Sino-Soviet split. Two samples:

The Ecuadorian accused the United States of "trading traitors for humans" in an obvious reference to the Kennedy administration's payment of a ransom to Fidel

Castro for the prisoners he took at the Bay of Pigs.

He charged the United States was fighting in Vietnam to the neglect of its responsibilities in Latin America.

The dourness of his appearance was enhanced by the rimless dark green glasses he wore to shade his eyes against the bright television lights.

At times he fidgeted. He shifted in his seat or scratched his forehead or rubbed a cheek. He rearranged the papers in the dark blue portfolio in front of him. He sipped at a glass of water or adjusted the microphone as if he were getting ready to speak.

His turn was not to come for almost two hours.

When Arosemena finished, Johnson, along with about half the other presidents, refused to applaud.

As the floor was given to more moderate Latin American leaders the president continued to appear in a dark mood. The Ecuadorian had obviously settled him. A couple of times he leaned backward to whisper with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Afterwards, Walt Rostow, the White House special assistant for national security affairs, and other aides appeared in the corridors of the San Rafael Hotel to give reporters a little background about U.S.-Ecuadorian relations.

The burden of their rebuttal among the other delegations, both Latin and U.S., there is wide agreement that Arosemena has spoken chiefly

Moon 'Out' Before '70

APOLLO TRIP YEAR AWAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

The U.S. space agency's No. 2 man told Congress Thursday that the fatal Apollo fire at Cape Kennedy delayed the next manned space flight by a year. He said the chances now for putting an American on the moon by 1970 were "somewhat less."

Robert Seamans, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, also sharply criticized North American Aviation, prime contractor for the Apollo capsule and the second stage of the Saturn V booster rocket.

Testifying before the Senate space committee, Seamans said the fire that killed three astronauts Jan. 27 would delay another manned space flight until at least late 1967, but more likely until early 1968.

IMPROVEMENTS

Seamans assured the committee which is investigating the disaster, that NASA would improve accessibility to the Apollo cabin, change cabin materials to reduce flammability, and improve the spacecraft wiring as recommended by an Apollo review board.

Dr. George Mueller, NASA director of manned space flight, testified that a breakthrough in fiberglass fabrics would help in the replacement of flammable plastics. He added that an Apollo escape hatch, which can be opened in two to five seconds, had already reached the mock-up stage in development.

SUMMARY

Maj. Gen. Samuel Phillips, now head of the Apollo program for NASA, summarized criticism of North American management of the program that was made in late 1965. However, Seamans in effect refused to give to the committee the notes which constituted the critical report made by a task force headed by Phillips.

Phillips told the committee that his report, presented orally to North American and NASA officials on Dec. 19, 1965, criticized insufficient attention by top North American management to the big Apollo contracts. He outlined, for the Senate committee, specific criticisms of the company's engineering, manufacturing, quality control and contracting operations.

Turner Favors Ease-Up Of Homosexuality Law

TORONTO (CP) — Registrar-General John Turner says private relationships between consenting adult homosexuals, now a crime under the law, should be allowed.

Mr. Turner said such relationships should be permissible as long as they do not contravene a minor's morals. He favored a change on medical grounds and suggested couples should be able to get a divorce after a certain established separation period, such as three or five years.

Landslide for Tories In U.K. County Vote

LONDON (UPI) — Resurgent Conservatives here won a landslide victory in crucial elections for a new "parliament" for London and its suburbs. They gained absolute control of the new 100-seat Greater London council early today, ousting Labour after 33 years of unbroken rule in the British capital.

They also piled up massive gains in elections held at the same time for the 58 county councils of England and Wales outside London.

The key industrial county of Lancashire — regarded as a top political prize — fell to the Conservatives in another landslide triumph. They also won control of Leicestershire and Warwickshire in addition to four others they gained earlier in the week.

The stunning swing back in favor of the Conservatives was a major upset. However, nationally, the Labor government is not obliged to hold new general elections for another four years.

Experts predicted the final result in Greater London would be 82 Conservatives to 18 Labor. The outgoing council, the division of seats was 64 Laborites to 36 Conservatives.

Vice-Regal Post Has Future Says Michener

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP) — The genial visitor with the curly grey hair, the cheroot and the quizzical eye was asked, in effect, whether the job of governor-general has a future in Canada.

"I certainly enter upon my duties with that expectation," said Daniel Ronald Michener, who will become Governor-General in Ottawa Monday, three days before his 67th birthday.

Michener gave a press conference at Claridge's after arriving with his wife from India and before they went to Windsor to be overnight guests of the Queen. The Micheners fly to Canada today.

PROPER HABITMENT

Unruffled by questions about republicanism in Canada and the idea of a United States takeover, Michener said he stopped in London on his journey from India because:

"I wanted to pay my respects to Her Majesty and also to enquire into the proper habitation of a governor-general."

British observers called it Canada Week. Besides the visit of the Micheners, Mayor William Denison of Toronto was in town and six Canadian ministers are to arrive in a few days for an Anglo-Canadian ministerial committee session, preceded by a big centennial ball.

DINNER GUESTS

The Queen's dinner guests, besides the Micheners, included Sir Arthur Porritt, Governor-General-designate for New Zealand and Lady Porritt; Irish Ambassador John Molloy; Moroccan Ambassador Prince Lala Aicha and her husband Hassan Elyoubi; British Defence Secretary Denis Healey and Mrs. Healey; Lord Morris, pro-chancellor of the University of Wales; and Baroness Elliot of Harwood.

Michener, whose press conference was held at Claridge's, said he was in London on his journey from India because:

"I wanted to pay my respects to Her Majesty and also to enquire into the proper habitation of a governor-general."

20 Nations Sign Sweeping Document Today

Common Market Heart of Latin Pact

PUNTA DEL ESTE (LAT) —

The presidents of 20 American nations completed work late Thursday on a sweeping document that they hope will speed economic development throughout Latin America. It calls essentially for the creation of a Latin American common market by 1985 and for new impetus in the Alliance for Progress. But it also spells out in detail a series of other measures.

Of the 23 nations that make up the Organization of American States, only three will not sign the declaration this morning.

They are Cuba, whose communist government was expelled from the OAS six years ago; Bolivia, whose president did not attend the conference because of political troubles at home, and Ecuador. Otto Arosemena, the Ecuadorian president, has raised the single voice of discontent since the government leaders began their discussions here Wednesday. He has criticized the United States harshly and assailed the alliance as a failure.

Among the other delegations, both Latin and U.S., there is wide agreement that Arosemena has spoken chiefly

U.S. Rejects Red Sub Bid

WASHINGTON (LAT) — The United States has turned down a Soviet bid to buy a research submarine embodying the latest deep-sea technology, it was learned Thursday.

Sale of a STAR 3 research vehicle, capable of diving to a depth of 2,000 feet, would not be in the national interest, according to sources in Washington who reported the decision made by the state department.

Hot-Cargo Problem Cooling Off Fast

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Five trawlers went to a designated dumping ground 120 miles southwest of here Thursday and dumped 280,000 pounds of rotten fish, spoiled by a dock tieup at the northern coastal city.

The Prince Rupert Fishing Vessel Owners' Association has launched a damage suit against the Fishermen's and Allied Workers' Union for loss of the fish and for time lost by the trawlers.

Shoreworker members of the union refused to unload the fish, which was branded as "hot cargo" because trawler crews on the British Columbia coast are striking for a better catch-sharing agreement.

Farmer

Witness Tells Murder Trial

Speck in Bar at Crucial Time

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—A tavern employee testified Thursday that Richard Speck left the place at 12:15 or 12:30 a.m. July 14—more than an hour after, the state said, he entered a townhouse where eight nurses were slain.

Murle Farmer gave the testimony before a jury trying Speck on charges of murdering the young women July 14, 1966. Corazon Amuroso, the only survivor of the massacre and the state's star witness, told the jurors last week that Speck came to the door of her bedroom about 11 p.m. July 13 and stayed in the house until about 3:30 a.m. July 14.

LEFT, RETURNED

Farmer, who works for Kay's Pilot House, about 1 1/2 miles from the nurses' townhouse residence on Chicago's South side, told his story under questioning by defence lawyer Gerald W. Getty.

He said Speck came into the saloon around 8 p.m. Speck left at 8:30 but returned at about midnight and left between 12:15 and 12:30.

Farmer said he noticed a tattoo showing on Speck's left arm.

FINGERPRINTS

Earlier the defence strove to build doubts about fingerprint evidence.

Getty, Cook County public defender, showed the jury photographs of 11 unidentified prints found where the young women were strangled and stabbed.

He also presented fingerprint cards of two of the victims—Gloria Davy and Suzanne Farris—for comparison with three prints lifted from the inner side of the door of the south bedroom.

SIMILAR TO GIRLS'

The girls were corralled in that room until the killer led them out, one by one, to be slain.

Prosecution witnesses have testified that the fingerprints on the door matched Speck's. Getty has attempted to show that they were similar to the prints of Miss Davy and Miss Farris.

"In all fairness," Bailey asked, "isn't that about as far as you can go?"

"It is possible," said Dr. Umberger.

The trial continues.

Chemist Quite Sure Drug Killed Woman

NAPLES, Fla. (AP)—A chemist who searched for signs of homicide in the body of Carmela Coppolino testified Thursday he would say "with reasonable scientific certainty" that she was killed by a drug.

"If you injected this drug into a live human, then strangled him or hit him with a baseball bat, I would get the same findings I got in this case," said Dr. Charles Joseph Umberger.

He returned to testify for the second day in the murder trial of Dr. Carl Coppolino, an anesthesiologist accused of killing his 32-year-old wife with an injection of the paralyzing drug succinylcholine.

Death apparently came for Carmela, he said, before the drug could dissipate, indicating "an acute toxic reaction."

The large quantity in the brain, Dr. Umberger said, pointed to a quick death, because if she had lived for some time the drug would have been distributed throughout her body.

Some four months after death, Carmela's body was taken from its New Jersey grave to the office of Dr. Milton Helpern, New York City's chief medical examiner.

Dr. Helpern performed an autopsy, then gave the vital organs to Dr. Umberger for chemical tests, with special instructions to look for signs of succinylcholine poisoning.

Pending Executions Halted in Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—A U.S. federal judge Thursday ordered 51 pending executions upheld indefinitely because of a suit attacking Florida's capital case trial laws as unconstitutional.

U.S. District Judge William McRae also set a hearing for May 31 on the suit filed by two civil rights groups which seeks for a writ of habeas corpus to either free the condemned killers and rapists or grant them new trials.

The 51 men all are on death row at Florida's Raiford prison. The suit was filed by the American Civil Liberties Union and the Legal Defense Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

READY TO SIGN
The ACLU and LDF attorneys actually represent six of the men, but their petition was filed on behalf of all 51.

Although there are no executions actually scheduled in Florida's electric chair, Gov. Claude Kirk has let it be known that he is in favor of capital punishment and is ready to sign death papers at anytime.

"The execution of the sentence of death upon the named petitioners and all other persons now subject to execution in Florida . . . is hereby stayed until further order of this court," Judge McRae ruled.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL
Judge McRae refused to allow the convicts to be present at the hearing, as asked by the attorneys, since the hearing apparently will be the first of many in the tangled legal question.

The attorneys, headed by Miami ACLU lawyer Alfred Feinberg, claim in their petition that the following aspects of Florida's capital case code are unconstitutional:

Farmland Holdings Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Increased holdings of farmland in Western Canada more than offset decreases in Eastern Canada between the census of 1961 and the census of 1966, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

The total area defined officially as farms increased to 174,124,628 acres from 172,581,051 acres during the five years.

Small farms, holdings of an acre or more with sales exceeding $50 a year, dropped by 10.5 per cent to 430,522.

Commercial farms, holdings of an acre or more with sales exceeding $2,500, increased by 5.9 per cent to 276,835.

Education Changes 'Radical'

LAKE COWICHAN — Education is in a state of transition at Lake Cowichan's Alexander Elementary School where several experimental classes are operating, said principal Andy McMorland. He told a PTA meeting, "the pupil is to be taught as an individual and not in a group — allowing for differences in personal, mental and physical development to shine through," he said. "The concept of each learning method is undergoing radical changes."

Renovations Alter Old Island Hotel

By MARY MOORE
UNION BAY — The Islander Hotel, a well-known 45-year-old stopping-off point for motorists, is getting the facelift treatment. The hotel's new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hill, moved here from Deep Bay with big plans this month.
COFFEE TOO
 "New foundations come first, and when the building is levelled we'll start redecorating," Mr. Hill said.
 Mrs. Hill is concentrating on the kitchen, where a deep fryer is being installed, and on a coffee shop.
 The couple have one son, Bill, who is attending Cumberland Junior Secondary School.
 Mrs. Hill, a former equestrian who rode show horses and specialized in steeplechase riding, now breeds and sells Pekingese dogs.
 Mr. Hill is no stranger to the district — he has been a commercial fisherman in Deep Bay for a quarter of a century.
 The Islander Hotel was built in 1921 by Mrs. Willis and was known as the Willis Hotel. Emilie Rosal bought the business in 1962 and changed the name to The Islander.
 Mr. and Mrs. Rosal and their two sons are now living in Vancouver.

DUNCAN — Graveside service will be held at 11 a.m. today at Mt. View Cemetery for Rodgers Emmerson Hezighah, who died at the age of 87. He lived here for 11 years, coming from Buttle Lake.

DUNCAN — North Cowichan and Duncan are moving closer together in the field of recreation. Pioneer and Kin Park Committee, consisting of Coun. John Cannon, Coun. Dennis Hogan, Ald. Homer Alex and Ald. Tom K'Patrick, has adopted the procedure and policy for administration of the Pioneer Park Fund on a joint basis.
 Coun. Cannon described the meeting as "fruitful." The committee has put off decisions for planning at the park until word is received from a planning expert.

COURTENAY — Name tags for contestants in the Vancouver Island Bowling tournament for mentally retarded players, to be held in Courtenay on Saturday, are being made by members of the 1st Courtenay Land Rangers. Some 115 bowlers from Island points will participate.

DUNCAN — Graveside service will be held at 11 a.m. today at Mt. View Cemetery for Rodgers Emmerson Hezighah, who died at the age of 87. He lived here for 11 years, coming from Buttle Lake.

COURTENAY — A Rotary Club will organize the firehall and Roy's Studio to provide pictures of the celebration processes.

CHEMAINUS — A salmon barbecue, army cadet escorts, a fishing derby and soccer matches are only some of the functions listed for the Dominion Day Celebrations this year.

HORSES, SALMON
 Tuesday night in the firehall was like the operations room of an army camp before a major logistics exercise — Chemainus Hospital Women's Auxiliary will look after the catering during the celebrations, Chemainus from the Canada Manpower Centre in Courtenay, released this week, shows employment is fluctuating, Rod MacDougall, manager of the centre said. "In the logging industry, conditions improved considerably during the month of March." While there was still a surplus of semiskilled workers available, he said a shortage of skilled workers was developing.

COURTENAY — Specifications for clearing the site of the new school at Comox are ready for immediate tender as soon as the purchase is confirmed.

OFFICERS ELECTED
 Detailed reports were given by the 1966 committee members, Mrs. C. S. White, secretary and E. G. English, chairman.
 Linda Allen was elected secretary of the celebrations committee and Jack Jameson was appointed treasurer.
 At the next meeting, on April 25, a chairman will be elected.

Parents First Project

DUNCAN — Three out of every 100 children are mentally retarded, said Rev. Neil Robinson.

"And two out of the three, are trainable," he commented.
 Mr. Robinson was explaining the work of the Duncan Association for Retarded Children to the chamber of commerce here.

FIRST JOB
 He said the first job of the association was to help the parents of retarded children.
 "Until recently parents would take these children and hide them in attic rooms."

HELP THERE
 He said the association had to make parents aware someone was trying to help these children.

Children from six to 18 attend the Arcadian School. Nineteen are enrolled.

WORKSHOP
 When the Arcadian School for mentally retarded children became the responsibility of the school board, the retarded children's association undertook the establishment of the Cowichan Sheltered Workshop.

Nine people are currently employed.

COST LOW
 "They are learning something," said Mr. Robinson.
 "They are being shown they are part of our community."
 He stated it cost the association about $600 a year to support each individual.

TREES NEEDED
 Other business:
 Dick Benzie stated, "We already have a harbormaster. The need of a harbor board is going to arise very shortly."

He also suggested the chamber could try to cut "eyesores" along the highway by sympathetic appeal.
 "A half dozen trees planted in front of junk yards would eliminate the eyesore."

KEEP NATURAL
 Two areas were mentioned, the municipal workshop on the Island Highway and the B.C. Hydro grounds.

"This is not a criticism of the municipality but a suggestion as to how to beautify the land."
 The chamber received a $500 municipal grant.

TRAVEL EDITORS
 Arrangements are being made for the reception of 35 top travel editors to view the forest museum May 5.

Tentative plans for a talk on regional development to be given by Minister of Municipal Affairs Dan Campbell are underway.
 A general meeting will be held at the Commercial Hotel May 17 at 8 p.m.

Who Rides Shotgun On Nuptial Barge?

'I Didn't Know Pulp-Sulphite Even Existed'

By ARNOLD OLSON
NANAIMO—And then there were eight.

Last week the jobs of 13 men were on the block unless they restarted payment of dues to the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, Local 695.

One of the men, Fred Watson, has only been in Canada for nine months. He came from England.

He has his ideas about the situation, but he said "as yet I have no real side."

In a confusion similar to stepping into a family argument, he readily agreed to conform to the strongest point of view, and the first to approach him.

That was the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, Local 8. He stopped payment of dues, as they had.

"From where I stood, there was no Local 695," he said.

The next reference to the existence of Pulp-Sulphite union was when the company advised him that he must pay into the union, or suffer suspension from his job.

He gathered as much information as he could in a short time, and found that the Pulp-Sulphite did, indeed, have a contract with the company.

"Of course they have a legal right, so I joined back up," he said.

There are three other men who concurred with his decision on their own.

Another has quit the mill to go back to school.

The company has said that they will suspend the remaining eight, unless they comply with Pulp-Sulphite's demand for dues payments.

They had tried to go to arbitration with the union, but were refused.

Between now and Tuesday, they are attempting to have legal clarification of the union shop clause that is of so much concern.

They maintain that it was never meant as a bludgeon to dismiss workers in "mass firings."

They anticipate a possible request to suspend all Local 8 members which would stop production.

The two-union fight has been flaring up for almost a year, since the Canadian union attempted to decertify the Pulp-Sulphite.

It failed twice, but is presently getting signatures of supporters for another appearance before the Labor Relations Board.

Since April 3, it has signed on 600 of the 850-man mill.

Pulp-Sulphite, in a court appearance, claimed to have 150 men who supported it.

The Canadian union claims to have taken over 12 of those.

In the past week, big guns from both unions have been meeting in Nanaimo with local executives, offering advice and support.

Thursday night, lawyer Mary Southin representing the Canadian union met with local president Gordon Wickham, and the membership.

As locals of the IWA and Pulp-Sulphite walk nervously down the aisle, the temple is filled with shrill cries of "Who's got the shotgun?"

The choir's solemn rendering of Solidarity Forever is marred by insults tossed like tomatoes from the back pews.

The Canadian Labor Congress, officiating at the ceremony, stands splattered and brick-scarred at the altar.

And one thing is certain: If this marriage produces one union, there will be many to question the babe's paternity.

Allen Raps Critics

Here's a quick list of wedding guests, in their many moods: Syd Thompson, Vancouver IWA president, disassociated himself from the marriage calling it a "gyration" of the IWA officers.

Weldon Jubenville, head of the powerful Duncan IWA local, said "It is a shotgun marriage."

Jack Moore, regional official of the IWA, admitted the regional council is split over the alliance with the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers at Gold River.

Walter Allen, president of the Port Alberni local, fired back: "Our critics within the IWA just need more experience, and they would understand the problems."

Bill Cox, an official of the Union, said "It is an AFL and CLC fallacy that might be right."

John Squire, Port Alberni business agent for the IWA, hinted from Gold River that it may now be easier to win the campaign for the support of pulp workers at the mill.

Claude Jobin, head of the Canadian Labor Congress, made the initial announcement of application for joint certification by the Port Alberni IWA and Pulp-Sulphite for the new Gold River mill.

Vice-president Cox of Crofton Local 2 of the Canadian union said, "I think the action of the IWA and Pulp Sulphite confirms our suspicions the IWA was merely assisting Pulp-Sulphite to obtain certification in Gold River contrary to the wishes of the employees by any and all means."

"The so-called Canadian Labor Congress, better described as the Canadian branch of the American Federation of Labor, has been true to form in the high-handed dictates of its hierarchy."

Knocking of Heads

The opinion of executive vice-president Joe Morris when he said Pulp-Sulphite should resort to the knocking of heads, is indicative of their form of unionism.

"When you can disregard basic union principles and policies it is simple to cutively disregard people as well."

The alliance between the IWA local and the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill workers does not embrace all the other locals of the IWA, Mr. Moore said.

Mr. Thompson said "Joint certification as now proposed by Moore and the Port Alberni local, means the IWA members in the Talsis Co. are to be used to win the Gold River Pulp mill for the international pulp union."

The Vancouver local maintaining the agreement, sanctioned by the Canadian Labor Congress, constitutes a disregard of the policies agreed to March 29 at a special regional executive board meeting.

The meeting decided unanimously that the IWA reject the CLC proposal of joint application, Mr. Thompson said.

Mr. Allen replied, "We are prepared to back the record of the Port Alberni local against the record of any local in the regional council, in respect to honesty and integrity."

The objective of the suggested alliance between the IWA and the Pulp-Sulphite, is to present a common front to a common employer at the bargaining table, with each union retaining its separate identity.

"We intend to do everything that is honest and honorable in the formation of one union in the forest products industry, representing all workers, from stump to finished product," the Port Local head said.

Mr. Jubenville said "The officers of IWA local 1-80 publicly disassociate themselves from the officers of Port Alberni local, regional president Jack Moore, and regional third vice-president Maurice Corbett, who have flagrantly disregarded a majority decision."

'CLC High-Handed'

"This pledged all-out support of Local 1-85 to obtain a variance certification, covering all employees of the Talsis Co. Limited."

"We further condemn the high handed action of the CLC in disregarding policies of IWA regional council."

"In our opinion the shotgun marriage of local 1-85 and the O'N's all-directed International Pulp and Sulphite Union, does nothing less than deny the membership at Gold River the right to join the union of their choice."

IWA business agent John Squire was in Gold River representing the IWA.

He said "I feel the reaction of Talsis employees to the news about one union, was very good. They see it as a move to stop the splintering of the bargaining strength of unions in the forest industry."

"I am particularly pleased with their reaction. It has been explained to them what we are attempting to develop... the first stage is to have one voice at the bargaining table."

Mr. Allen said "We have not moved from our position of support of international unions, we are still strong IWA supporters as any other members of the union."

He discounted remarks about violation of the IWA constitution.

"What we are doing is with the knowledge and understanding of the international officers of the international union."

"As far as critics in our own organization are concerned, we have constructive work to do."

Sisters Snip For Big Trip

Mum's the word for frockled lassies who want to go to Expo. Two sisters from Nanaimo are selling mums on a service station parking lot, as an after-school venture. They buy the mums at a greenhouse, and their aim is to get enough money to see the big show in Montreal. They are Cathy Ozero, 14, and Lynda—(Agnes Flett)

Strings Tight, Player Ready

LAKE COWICHAN—Vaudeville, that combination of slapstick humor, honky-tonk music, can-can dancers and banjo players, will go to Expo 67. Especially banjo players. Fred Borgerson, of Lake Cowichan, leaves on April 23 for a six-month stint in a vaudeville act at Expo.

Mr. Borgerson, who has been playing the banjo since he was a boy, will be one of 15 recreating the traditional saloon atmosphere of the Klondike Days in a Fran Davis Enterprise production.

The troupe, also consisting of several West Coast Mainland entertainers, will play at the Golden Garter, on the island of La Ronde.

The saloon will be open 15 hours a day. Entertainers, including Fred O'Shea and Candy Kane, will play five-hour shifts.

Mr. Borgerson, who plays entirely by ear, mused, "Vaudeville and centennial celebrations are 'a natural'."

Train Crew 'Blameless'

COURTENAY—A six-member coroner's jury Thursday night attached no blame to the train crew involved in a multiple road fatality March 31 in Courtenay.

The jury found that Mrs. Betty Jorgensen, 38, her children Janet, 10, William, 8, and Donald, 6, died as a result of the car driver not exercising proper care "at this hazardous crossing."

The four were sole occupants of a car which smashed into a freight train at 10:30 a.m. at the E and N level crossing on Fraser Road.

The inquest, before Coroner Tom Mendes, was told that the family died instantly from gross multiple injuries.

"I could see it wasn't going to stop... and if it did it would still hit us," the fireman, John Borrowsman said.

A blood sample from Mrs. Jorgensen showed no trace of alcohol.

The jury urged strongly for flashing lights to be installed at the crossing.

The family is survived by Henry Jorgensen, a logger. The road was dry at the time of the accident and there were no skid marks.

No Arbitration Members Vow

By MARY TAYLOR
PORT ALBERNI—Pulp-Sulphite members here are ready for all-out war to stop any attempt at arbitrating the union security clause.

"Members voted overwhelmingly at meetings Wednesday and Thursday to take any action necessary against MacMillan Bloedel's attempts to submit a union recognition and security clause to binding arbitration," said James Spencer.

All Weapons

Mr. Spencer is vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

Seven hundred members here voted to use all weapons to stop the arbitration attempt at Har-mac, near Nanaimo, where Pulp-Sulphite is involved in a dispute with the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

"The trade union movement fought for decades for union security and we are not likely to give up the main clause that binds all the rest together," Mr. Spencer said.

"The office workers here went out on strike in 1964 just to get this type of security clause and they received it only to a limited degree. But we have it and don't intend to lose it," he added grimly.

All Is Calm

No organized attempt appears to have been made to establish the Pulp and Paper Workers' of Canada union in the Albernis as has been done at Har-mac.

If there are sympathizers they have kept very quiet so far.

Mr. Spencer said by law the Canadian union could legally apply for certification after May 1 until June 30.

Opposition

"Objection from the Pulp-Sulphite union did not centre around the right of the Har-mac workers to go Canadian or their right to ask for certification of Local 8 during the legal 60-day period."

Haynes

"The labor movement of British Columbia has taken a decisive step toward unification," Ray Haynes, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor said Thursday.

The International Woodworkers of America, Local 1-85 and the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Papermill Workers, Local 476, have signed an agreement that may eventually lead to the establishment of one union for all workers employed in the forest products industry, he said.

The agreement specified that where both unions deal with a common employer the operations should be covered by a joint collective bargaining certificate.

"The Federation greets this mutual decision of co-operation between the IWA and the International Pulp union with enthusiasm," Mr. Haynes said.

"The federation hopes that this agreement is the start of unification in the trade union movement, not only in the forest product industry, but in other industries of the province as well."

"We are satisfied there is no disagreement concerning the one-union idea."

Rezoning Bids Given Battle

Strong opposition from residents was encountered at a public hearing in Langford Wednesday night, against rezoning applications for several commercial and industrial operations.

For Sparkers Beach Banjo Out

Spooners must become sponsors if they have been depending on parking in the turnaround on Dalhousie near the waterfront, following the recent decision by the B committee of Oak Bay municipal council to place an 11 p.m. curfew on the parking spot.

Police Chief John Green told the committee residents have been complaining about cars in the banjo turnaround, especially after 11 p.m., when the Esplanade parking restriction applies.

By way of romantic adjustment, however, parking at Centre Point on Beach Drive has been extended from 10 to 11 p.m., so all is not lost for lovers.

Mackay to Alberta

Mounties Moved To New Postings

Insp. George Mackay, officer commanding Victoria subdivision, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, will leave the city shortly to assume command of the new P Division, at Penhold, Alberta.

P Division is the force's new training division, taking over all personnel training carried out at Rockcliffe in Ottawa.

Rockcliffe will continue as a base for the famous RCMP Musical Ride, and the crime laboratory there will remain in operation.

This move brings both RCMP basic training depots to western Canada, as the pioneer Regina depot will also carry on.

LAW COMING
 Insp. Mackay will be succeeded in Victoria by Insp. H. F. Law, officer commanding North Bay subdivision in Ontario.

Supt. G. R. Engel, formerly head of criminal investigation in British Columbia's E Division and well known throughout B.C., has been promoted to assistant commissioner. His present post is director of organization and personnel in Ottawa.

Supt. E. A. Penneck, E Division's administrative officer, has been placed on transfer, his new posting to be announced.

Replacing him in Victoria will be Chief Supt. D. R. Usborne, from headquarters in Ottawa.

NATIVE OF B.C.
 Supt. J. J. Atherton, a native of B.C. and since 1961 officer commanding Vancouver subdivision, retires to pension April 28.

Steel Mill May Link China, West

PEKING (Reuters) - West German businessmen Thursday began talks with Chinese officials about the possible construction in China of a large steel-rolling mill.

Informed sources said that if agreement were reached the project would cost an estimated $150,000,000 and would be the largest contract so far between China and Western Europe.

The offer was made by a consortium of West German, French and Belgian firms with the Bonn government offering a credit guarantee of $75,000,000.

Anything for a Price?

Saanich Coun. Digby Kier Wednesday night suggested the Greater Victoria Centennial Society try to catch up with roller skater Chris Price and give him a feather-weight plaque to take to Expo.

Mr. Price, 20, was last reported in Calgary, still on the roller skates which he hopes will carry him to Montreal. He wants to be the first person to travel from the West Coast to Expo on such wheels.

Sewers Needed First Lake Man Claims

The Prospect Lake district should be sewered before it joins Saanich's water system, a resident of the area said Wednesday night.

Andrew McGregor, 4633 Prospect Lake Road, claimed that if sewers don't precede piped water the lake will be acutely polluted.

"When piped water comes, people will build more homes and discharge more effluent than ever," he claimed. "For that reason, sewers should be first."

Saanich plans to hold a referendum among homeowners of the Prospect Lake, Fairholme and Westholm Road districts on the question of extending the water system.

Such an extension would cost $240,710, of which the municipality's share would be $101,000. Mr. McGregor said he knows several people who feel the same as himself.

He said Saanich is building a swimming pool in the Gordon

Secrecy Invited to Join United Front

Room for All in Dalton's Camp

OTTAWA (CP) — Dalton Camp said Thursday he hopes to form a united front of conservative political forces at the national level, including alignment with Social Credit supporters.

His remarks on the subject received relatively little attention from reporters seeking a clear picture on whether Mr. Camp will be a candidate next September for the leadership of his party. That question remained unanswered, although Mr. Camp left the door open for a later declaration of his candidacy. His statements on unity closely paralleled those of recent months by Premier Ernest Manning, Alberta's Social Credit leader who has called for all conservatives to unite under one banner.

He set down as one of the first tests of contemporary leadership "a realignment of political forces within the national political scene."

serious observer of politics must agree, that the separation in practical political terms between almost all the minority parties and one or other of the major parties is largely rhetorical and illusory.

Moon 'Out' Before '70

Trip by Apollo Now Year Away

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. space agency's No. 2 man told Congress Thursday that the fatal Apollo fire at Cape Kennedy delayed the next manned space flight by a year. He said the chances now for putting an American on the moon by 1970 were "somewhat less."

Robert Seamans, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, also sharply criticized North American Aviation, prime contractor for the Apollo capsule and the second stage of the Saturn V booster rocket.

Testifying before the Senate space committee, Seamans said the fire that killed three astronauts Jan. 27 would delay another manned space flight until at least late 1967, but more likely until early 1968.

IMPROVEMENTS

Seamans assured the committee, which is investigating the disaster, that NASA would improve accessibility to the Apollo cabin, change cabin materials to reduce flammability, and improve the spacecraft wiring as recommended by an Apollo review board.

SUMMARY

Maj. Gen. Samuel Phillips, now head of the Apollo program for NASA, summarized criticism of North American's management of the program that was made in late 1965.

Phillips told the committee that his report, presented orally to North American and NASA officials on Dec. 19, 1965, criticized insufficient attention by top North American management to the big Apollo contracts.

OTTAWA (CP)—A thorough revision of the federal white paper on immigration appears in the works as a disgruntled special parliamentary committee prepares to make its report.

The committee hearings are preliminary to parliamentary revision of the 14-year-old Immigration Act.

As the hearings ended Thursday, Senator Harry Willis (PC-Ontario) said he feels that its emphasis on skill and education discriminates against Italians.

MUST HAVE GRADE XI

Meanwhile, Herb Gray (L-Quebec West) said that department officials, who wrote the report, weren't able to back up their allegations with facts.

The white paper proposals basically would restrict entry to those with the equivalent of a Grande XI education.

However, a number of briefs said the policy would discriminate against southern Europeans, who often have limited educations.

20 Nations Sign Sweeping Document Today

Common Market Heart of Latin Pact

PUNTA DEL ESTE (LAT) — The presidents of 20 American nations completed work late Thursday on a sweeping document that they hope will speed economic development throughout Latin America.

creation of a Latin American common market by 1965 and for new impetus in the Alliance for Progress. But it also spells out in detail a series of other measures.

They are Cuba, whose communist government was expelled from the OAS six years ago; Bolivia, whose president did not attend the conference because of political troubles at home, and Ecuador.

Otto Arosemena, the Ecuadorian president, has raised the single voice of discontent since the government leaders began their discussions here Wednesday. He has criticized

Johnson Just Plum Glum

By STUART LOORY

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (LAT) — With the United States' Latin American policy under attack, President Johnson sat in the chiefs of state summit meeting Thursday at times wearing the expression of a little boy awaiting an appointment with the dentist.

Glum was the word for the American leader. He appeared not angry, not sad, but downright glum as Ecuador's acting president Otto Arosemena Gomez publicly castigated American policy in some of the toughest talk one country's leader has used to another in recent years, including the Sino-Soviet split.

Two samples. ● The Ecuadorian accused the United States of "trading tractors for humans" in an obvious reference to the Kennedy administration's payment of a ransom to Fidel

Castro for the prisoners he took at the Bay of Pigs.

● He charged the United States was fighting in Vietnam to the neglect of its responsibilities in Latin America.

Johnson sat with his head buried deeply within his big hands, his body hunched forward and his elbows resting on the white-covered conference table he is sharing with 19 other leaders.

His turn was not to come for almost two hours. When Arosemena finished, Johnson, along with about half the other presidents, refused to applaud.

As the floor was given to more moderate Latin American leaders the president continued to appear in a dark mood. The Ecuadorian had obviously nettled him. A couple of times he leaned backward to whisper with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Afterwards, Walt Rostow, the White House special assistant for national security affairs, and other aides appeared in the corridors of the San Rafael Hotel to give reporters a little background about U.S.-Ecuadorian relations.

The burden of their rebuttal

CASTLEGAR (CP) —

The British Columbia Supreme Court Thursday granted a four-day injunction to B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, allowing the company to ban picketing of the High Arrow dam project by striking electrical workers.

Work by almost 500 men halted earlier Thursday when five members of Local 999 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers set up a picket line claiming "hot" power was being used at the site in south-central B.C.

The electrical workers' union is striking against West Kootenay Power and Light Co., the company which supplies power to the construction sites.

Trevor Collins, spokesman for B.C. Hydro, said only 16 workers of a possible 500 men showed up for the afternoon shift Thursday, rather than cross the picket line.

The injunction, granted by Mr. Justice Kirk Smith of the Supreme Court, went into effect about midnight, enabling night crews to resume work. It was served by Mr. Edward Peck, general manager of Columbia Hydro Constructors, the company which handles employment at the damsite.

The injunction was granted because picketing customers of a struck firm is contrary to law.

The electrical workers are seeking a 47 per cent increase over the $3.12 per hour paid to tradesmen and a 34 cent hourly increase over the $2.29 paid laborers. They are also asking for a 2 1/2-hour reduction in their 40-hour work week.

Six-Month Sucker

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Arthur Kyker, 31, was sentenced Wednesday in Knox County Criminal Court to six months in jail for stealing one lollipop. Police said Kyker was caught in a kindergarten Feb. 30 with the loot in his pocket.

Turner Favors Ease-Up Of Homosexuality Law

TORONTO (CP) — Registrar-General John Turner says private relationships between consenting adult homosexuals, now a crime under the law, should be allowed.

Mr. Turner said such relationships should be permissible as long as they do not corrupt a minor's morals. He favored abortion on medical grounds and suggested couples should be able to get a divorce after a certain established separation period, such as three or five years.

Landslide for Tories In U.K. County Vote

LONDON (UPI) — Resurgent Conservatives in another landslide triumph. They also won control of Leicestershire and Warwickshire in addition to four others they gained earlier in the week.

The stunning swing back in favor of the Conservatives was a major upset. However, nationally, the Labor government is not obliged to hold new general elections for another four years.

Experts predicted the final result in Greater London would be 23 Conservatives to 18 Labor. In the outgoing council, the division of seats was 64 Laborites to 36 Conservatives.

Vice-Regal Post Has Future Says Michener

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—The genial visitor with the curly grey hair, the cheroot and the quizzical eye was asked, in effect, whether the job of governor-general has a future in Canada.

"I certainly enter upon my duties with that expectation," said Daniel Ronald Michener, who will become Governor-General in Ottawa Monday, three days before his 67th birthday.

Michener gave a press conference at Claridge's after arriving with his wife from India and before they went to Windsor to be overnight guests of the Queen. The Micheners fly to Canada today.

PROPER HABILIMENT

Unruffled by questions about republicanism in Canada and the idea of a United States takeover, Michener said he stopped in London on his journey from India because:

"I wanted to pay my respects to Her Majesty and also to enquire into the proper habiliment of a governor-general."

British observers called it Canada Week. Besides the visit of the Micheners, Mayor William Dennison of Toronto was in town and six Canadian ministers are to arrive in a few days for an Anglo-Canadian ministerial committee session, preceded by a big centennial ball.

DINNER QUESTS

The Queen's dinner guests, besides the Micheners, included Sir Arthur Porritt, Governor-General-designate for New Zealand and Lady Porritt; Irish Ambassador John Molloy; Moroccan Ambassador Princess Lalla Aicha and her husband, Hassan Eljeyoufi; British Defence Secretary Denis Healey and Mrs. Healey; Lord Morris, pro-chancellor of the University of Wales; and Baroness Elliot of Harwood.

U.S. Rejects Red Sub Bid

WASHINGTON (LAT) — The United States has turned down a Soviet bid to buy a research submarine embodying the latest deep-sea technology, it was learned Thursday.

Sale of a STAR 3 research vehicle, capable of diving to a depth of 2,000 feet, would not be in the national interest, according to sources in Washington who reported the decision made by the state department.
